

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

AWARDED THE GOLD MEDAL

AT THE NEW ORLEANS EXPOSITION.

Those who attended this Exposition cannot have failed to notice the very large and elegant exhibit of Optical Goods. It gives us great pleasure to announce, that notwithstanding the keen competition of home and foreign manufacturers, we received the award of "First Degree of Merit," being the Gold Medal, on our specialties.

We have in operation the only Factory in the West for the manufacture of Optical Apparatus, including Magic Lanterns, Sciopticons, Stereopticons and Accessories.

All apparatus of this kind described in the following pages is of our own manufacture, and much of it is made only by us, and under our own patents.

We have secured the services of expert mechanics of great practical experience in this class of work, and are prepared to execute all orders promptly.

Correspondence is solicited with Scientists, Colleges, Schools, Lecturers, and all others interested in our line. We shall be pleased to furnish estimates on special apparatus for scientific work.

CHAPTERS I AND II.

It was my privilege to read the ''advance sheets'' of the first two chapters of Rev. W. A. Smith's neat little volume entitled "From Occident to Orient." I am delighted with its matter and style. He captures the reader and takes him along across the ocean and through London in these two chapters in a very delightful way. He leaves you determined to take the whole journey with him.

REV. T. S. BAILEY, D. D., State Sup't Presb't Missions, Ia.

CHAPTER VI, VII, VIII.

These chapters read so vividly that the reader can easily see, without traveling, many of the curiosities which every European traveler that carefully observes, sees. The conversational style of these chapters make them not only readable but interesting and instructive to the student of general history.

Rev. W. A. Smith, in his new book, "From Occident to Orient," gives evidence that he is one of the very few eastern tourists who has true taste and appreciation in sight-seeing, as well as discrimination concerning what to see, and that he possesses the happy faculty of describing, in a pleasing, entertaining, and instructive manner, the things seen.

Although comparatively few are privileged to enjoy a visit to the Old World, this charming little volume, by its beautiful and vivid descriptions, enables every one to visit, in imagination, those historic places and scenes while sitting at his own fireside. We predict for the book a hearty welcome and a large sale.

INTRODUCTION.

T is supposed that the Magic Lantern originated early in the 13th century, when it was employed to excite the awe and credulity of the public by so-called magicians. This continued to be its principal use until within the last thirty years. Whereas, formerly, those skilled in arts and sciences sought craftily to preserve their knowledge a secret, except from a chosen few, it is a characteristic of the present age that the man of science seeks to share the result of his labors with his fellow man.

The Magic Lantern has been modified, improved and re-named so that the stereopticon of today bears little resemblance to the crude instrument which excited the wonder of the ignorant and enabled the unscrupulous to play upon their superstitious fears in the ages that have passed away.

The scientific investigator, the educator, the lecturer and he who simply caters to the higher amusement of the public, find in the stereopticon an indispensable aid. In its improved form most delicate investigations into chemical, physical, electrical and pathological phenomena are possible; and what is of most importance, the method of conducting such research, and its immediate results can be shown to an audience as easily as to a single individual. The educator can illustrate in the most effective manner by its aid, Physiology, Botany, Natural History, Chemistry, etc. Problems can be demonstrated, drawing lessons given, maps, diagrams, formulas and a great variety of exercises suitable for the class room can be displayed in a way to impress them upon the memory more firmly than by the older methods. Those who have made use of the Solar Microscope and Stereopticon largely for purposes of instruction are enthusiastic in its praise. Literary Colleges use it. A gentleman at the head of one of the largest institutions in the country where a stereopticon is constantly used, writes thus: "After the Stereopticon, the Blackboard seems almost good for nothing. I wonder how we have managed so long without it."

Medical Colleges. We have supplied many medical colleges with a complete outfit for using the Microscope and Stereopticon with Solar and Artificial light. This method of illustrating medical lectures is very popular with the students, and insures full seats during the hours when this apparatus is employed.

Microscopists find frequent use for the solar and oxy-hydrogen light, especially when spending many hours daily in original investigation. It enables them to study many processes on a larger field, giving the relation of parts, and economizes time, aside from the convenience of being able to demonstrate to all observers the work done.

Lecturers, whether engaged in instructing the public through the medium of lectures on natural science, or furnishing intellectual amusement suited to a promiscuous audience, thoroughly appreciate the benefits accruing from the use of the Stereopticon with a suitable selection of slides. The public never tires of good pictures and now that the art of photography has developed methods by which the amateur can easily learn to make his own lantern transparencies, a good Stereopticon is a most profitable investment for those who are engaged before the public.

Sunday Schools may not only be amused and interested, but religious instruction may be impressed upon the hearts of young and old in a most effective manner by a Stereopticon in the hands of a judicious Pastor or Superintendent. The illustrated Sacred Hymns, especially, form the most touching and beautiful exercise that can be imagined. Some of our leading Pastors use this instrument constantly to illustrate the Sunday School Lessons.

Temperance Societies find in the Stereopticon an invaluable aid in exciting interest in this subject which so large a proportion of the public regard as hackneyed and tedious. So extensively is this realized abroad that the most exquisite and varied lecture sets bearing on Temperance have been prepared, many of which have never been introduced into this country.

Bands of Hope, Juvenile Humane Societies, etc., which are designed for the benefit of children need every resource for imparting amusement and instruction, judiciously intermingled to keep up the interest of their members. In the Stereopticon they possess the very elements needed for this purpose.

Lodges, Granges, Grand Army Posts and all other Societies of a similar character, make considerable use of the Stereopticon as an attractive and economical means of illustrating their rituals or contributing to the interest of their entertainments.

Insane Asylums and other Public Institutions where those mentally or physically enfeebled are cared for, find the Stereopticon an endless source of interest; the minds of the patients can be directed to any subject thought desirable, by properly selected pictures.

Parlor Entertainment. The Sciopticon affords a never failing source of amusement in the family. Impromptu exhibitions are well adapted to while away the long dreary evenings in stormy weather when people are so apt to find time hang heavily on their hands. The young people can receive valuable help in forming a refined taste for art by the exercise of care on the part of the older members of the family, in the selection of slides. The Sciopticon has not been so generally introduced into the family in this country as in Europe. The cheap and worthless instruments offered for parlor entertainments have caused dissatisfaction and have been cast aside. soon as the public, generally, becomes aware that a cheap and satisfac tory apparatus is manufactured, there is no question but that this form of home entertainment will be more generally appreciated. ladies who have become expert in amateur photography entertain their friends at home with the products of their "summer outing" in the form of views which they have taken of the objects and places of interest discovered in their trip. These can be so readily transformed into beautiful lantern transparencies that this art has become a fascinating recreation to those willing to take the trouble to acquire the simple but necessary details of the process which will be found described in this catalogue.

Advertising with Stereopticons has become a popular method of bringing advertisers to the attention of the public. Properly managed, this is lucrative both to the exhibitor and his patrons.

The business card of advertisers being displayed singly and repeatedly while the interest of the observers is sustained by interspersing beautiful views of scenery and comic pictures, makes an impression on the memory which is less likely to be forgotton than when seen in an ordinary printed circular, on a picture card, or in a newspaper column. Amateur photography has done away with the only obstacle hitherto in the way of the success of this business; the cost of reproducing the business card, place of business or samples in the form of a lantern transparency is reduced to a trivial sum, and there need be no delay in doing the work.

It would be difficult to find any apparatus or instrument capable of furnishing such a variety of entertainment and instruction as a good Stereopticon. Late improvements have greatly simplified the methods of producing a brilliant light, with due regard to safety and economy, and all persons interested in the art of Projection are cordially invited to communicate with us in regard to the subject.

A PROFITABLE BUSINESS.

THE question of profit in a well managed Stereopticon Exhibition is one which admits of but one answer. This form of entertainment is exceedingly popular among all classes, and when the proper means are employed to bring it before the public it cannot fail to be highly remunerative.

The outlay required to secure a first-class outfit is less than for any other businesss which pays so well.

About 75 views are sufficient for an evening's exhibition. If a greater number is used less effort will be required on the part of the lecturer.

There is no difficulty in learning to work an apparatus; any one of ordinary intelligence can learn from the printed directions how to manage an Exhibition successfully. It is not even necessary that a man prepare his own programme or lecture; if he is inexperienced in such work he can obtain illustrated lectures in print all ready to read in connection with the views presented. No heavy labor is demanded, so that persons in delicate health have often succeeded in carrying on the business successfully. It offers an excellent method of paying expenses of travel to such as are compelled to seek change of climate without the necessary means to do so, and at the same time affords light and pleasing employment, which is frequently of no less advantage to the health seeker than the change of location. In almost every locality there is an opening for a man to do a large business in giving exhibitions to Sunday Schools, Academies, Lyceums, Public Audiences, Families, etc.

These are usually conducted on shares when given in churches, and almost everywhere halls can be rented for a percentage of the receipts. The running expenses are very light and the profit large when well advertised.

We are at all times ready to give suggestions or information to those about to engage in this business, and those who can find it convenient to call at our place of business will be shown, in detail, the method of running an exhibition.

We have the only showroom in the West where the Stereopticon may be seen at work at any time during business hours.

How to Order and Have Goods Shipped.

Write plainly your name, express and post office address, giving name of town, county and state; be careful to write your signature legibly. Much trouble arises from a blindly written signature. Always give the full name of article wanted, number of same, and page in Catalogue. In ordering Slides give subject, name of Slide, page and number. Always be explicit in giving shipping directions, whether by mail, express or freight, and when possible, the express company or R. R. route you prefer, stating the day you desire us to ship; we will comply with same, but will not assume the responsibility of safe or prompt delivery. Traveling lecturers and exhibitors should always give us their permanent address and also a list of the towns on their "route" so that we can always reach them by direct mail and avoid the risk and delay of having letters and parcels forwarded. Always allow plenty of time for correspondence to go and come. Remember it takes some time to fill an order after it is received.

Mailing Rates vs. Express Charges.

It is much cheaper to send many small articles by mail than by express. Limit of weight is four pounds. Slides will be mailed at the following prices, which includes box, packing and postage:

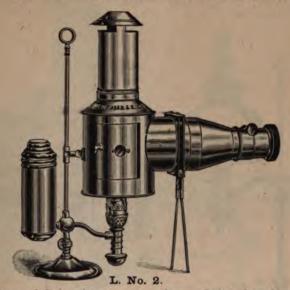

THE SOCIETY STEREOPTICON.

This little Lantern has been designed more especially for home use; for parlor entertainments; for those who cannot afford the more expensive Lanterns. The Condensing Lenses used in this Lantern are 41/2 inches in diameter, so that the standard size of Lantern slides can be used. The Objective or Projecting Lens is achromatic. Heretofore these lowpriced Lanterns have been mere toys, and would only take the cheap toy slides, which are much smaller in size, and of inferior quality. This Sciopticon has the most powerful Two-Wick Lamp manufactured, and is provided with a Reflector, which materially increases the illuminating power of the lamp; it burns with a brilliancy hitherto unsurpassed in a low-priced Oil Lantern; it is the best cheap Lantern in the market, and must be seen and tried to be appreciated; it is made in a durable and substantial manner, and every part being riveted it will bear any amount of rough usage. This Lantern is one of the lowest priced and most complete made, occupying a space of only 15x51/2x14 inches, and weighing but 61/2 lbs. At the price quoted is furnished a neat traveling case.

PRICE.....$25.00

THE ARGAND SCIOPTICON.

The Argand Sciopticon meets a demand that has long been made upon Lantern manufacturers for a low-priced Magic Lantern of sufficient power to give satisfaction not only to children but to adults as well. This is essentially a Lantern for home instruction and amusement. The Lantern can be attached to any Argand Student Lamp; we show two cuts, one complete, and one of the Argand Student Sciopticon without the Student Lamp, ready to be attached. Among many claims that may be made in support of the desirability of this Lantern are: As the manner or method of Kindergarten instruction has become, and undoubtedly will remain popular, so will the use of the Magic Lantern combine instruction with amusement, and afford inexpensive and inexhaustible entertainment to those who are its fortunate possessors. It is not a toy; with it can be used the standard make of Lantern slides, or transparencies-as made by different makers all over the world. As the source of light is from the ordinary Student Lamp, which almost every one, rich or poor, uses to read or study by, no especial preparation is necessary. All there is to do is to attach the Lantern, and project upon a common sheet hung on the wall, or suspended in a doorway, or better still, upon the white wall itself. No offensive odor; no intense heat; perfectly clean, and always ready for use. It will make a clear, bright picture 6½ to 7½ feet in diameter. is packed in a neat carrying case, with slide carriers and stops ready for use.

McINTOSH SCIOPTICON.

PRICE, complete in a neat canvas case with handle. $40.00

Inside of Case measures: 154 in. long, 74 in. wide, 154 in. high.

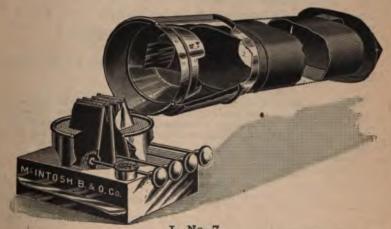

The body is of Russia iron; the cell that holds the condensing lenses, of brass; the hood is of spun brass in telescope form, presenting a feature entirely new and unique, and which effectively prevents the diffusion of light throughout the room. The objective is mounted on a skeleton frame-work consisting of steel rods and brass tubing so arranged that the rods telescope into the tubes, and the hood telescoping into itself enables it to be shut up close to the body of lantern and packed in the small sized case above mentioned. This same movement admits of the easy adjustment of the objective at proper distance from the condensers, which can be diminished or increased as the lantern is brought nearer to or further from the screen. The objective furnished with this lantern is the One Quarter Darlot; is achromatic and a high grade lens.

NEW MODEL SUNLIGHT OIL LAMP.

We take pleasure in presenting to the public a new Four-Wick Oil Lamp, which may be justly regarded as a triumph of skill; effects being produced hitherto deemed impossible of accomplishment with an oil light. The new model four-wick Sun-Light Oil Lamp is the most powerful lamp ever manufactured for lantern slide projection. The open space beneath the body of the lantern affords a large air chamber to which fresh air has free access, while the open space about the chimney permits an extra draught in addition to that furnished by the chimney itself. We have expended hundreds and hundreds of dollars in our endeavor to bring before the public an oil lantern that was satisfactory. We have succeeded, and at last it is an established fact. Especial attention is called to the excellent ventilation whereby perfect combustion is secured and an accumulation of heat prevented. It is impossible, with reasonable care in first lighting up, to cause cracking of the condensers from heat, the ventilation being arranged to draw the column of hot air back or away from them. This lamp ourns with a brilliancy hitherto unsurpassed; it is easily filled, trimmed, and kept in order. The chimney is made of metal throughout; immediately in front of, and also behind the light, there is an opening for the light to pass to the condenser and reflector. These openings are covered with plates of the highest grade of thin annealed glass of peculiar shape, manufactured expressly for this purpose. This glass is so thin that the amount of light obstructed by it is imperceptible; it is tough, and practically unbreakable except by sheer carelessness. Each glass is easily removed and is entirely independent of the other; the body of the lamp being attached to the fount with a hinge, renders each and every part easily accessible. The reflector is made after the most approved pattern, and is finely nickel-plated. It is attached to the outside of the chimney, and is protected.

from the heat and smoke by glass plates intervening between it and the flame. It is perforated in the center to allow examination of the wicks without exposing the eye to the full light of the lamp. It is all metal except the windows. No glass chimney or isinglass to get scratched, marred, or broken. The flame is pure white and of intense brilliancy, surpassing in illumination any effect previously produced by oil.

DIRECTIONS FOR MANAGING THE NEW MODEL SUN-LIGHT OIL LAMP.

- Use only the very highest grade of oil, 150° test.
- Do not fill the fount too full, or when the oil gets warm it will expand and run over.
- A little common camphor dissolved in oil will increase the brilliancy of illumination. It has one disadvantage, that of charring the wick.
- 4. A coal-oil lamp is like a race-horse—it must be thoroughly warmed up to do its best work. Always turn up the wicks gradually; a very little at a time, until you accomplish the best results on the screen, without the lamp smoking.

MCINTOSH BATTERY AND OPTICAL CO.,

141 & 143 Wabash Ave., City.

Gentlemen:-In reply to your favor of the 7th inst., I am pleased to inform you that of the many oil lanterns received from you for the use of our Councils, each one has proved entirely satisfactory. The simplicity of construction, and the ease with which they are manipulated, together with the splendid results obtained, commend them at once to public

I take great pleasure in recommending your lanterns.

Yours truly,

C. A. WARREN, Supreme Scribe, Royal League.

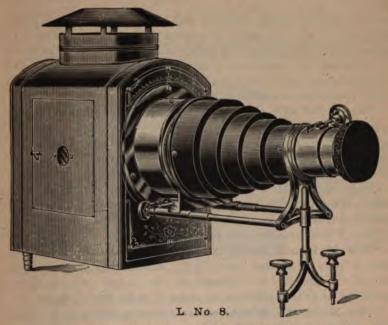

To McIntosh Battery and Optical Co., Chicago, IU.:

GENTLEMEN—After a very careful test of your new Sun-Light Oil Lamp with a number of others, I find that in brilliancy, even illumination, etc., it is far superior to any I have ever seen. It is unnecessary to add that I am pleased with my purchase.

Yours truly,

Member Chicago Lantern Slide Club and Chicago Camera Club.

THE McINTOSH SCIOPTICON.

ARRANGED FOR USING THE LIME LIGHT.

PRICE packed in a neat canvas case with handle...... $40.00

The only changes required to transform the No. 1 Sciopticon from an oil to a lime-light Lantern are the removal of the tall chimney and substitution of the low flat top, shown above, and the replacing of the lamp by the adjustable jet. The method of lighting up, focusing, etc., will be described on pages 16 and 107.

This apparatus is recommended to teachers, more especially in the lower grades, but since it is possible to operate the Polariscope in many experiments it can be made available for some of the experimental work in the higher grades, and the convenience of being able to get into work at a moment's notice, and without the trouble of making oxygen, is very great.

SPECIAL FEATURES OF THE SCIOPTICON.

The exhibitor being provided with an outfit with which either form of light can be employed is prepared for all emergencies. In a small hall his oil light will be sufficient and will save expense, while in a large hall his more powerful light will be at hand, and in case of breakage of any part of his apparatus for the lime light, he can furnish a very creditable entertainment with his Sun-Light Lamp.

We do not offer this as a substitute for the ether-oxygen or oxy-hydrogen lime light, but we claim that it far surpasses any oil light in the market, and that the cheapness of this light with the rapidity of lighting up is a practical advantage for many purposes.

The McIntosh Sciopticon, in simplicity, compactness and brilliancy of illumination, surpasses every other oil lantern we have seen. The price is as low as a satisfactory apparatus can be manufactured for, and we do not hesitate to guarantee that the purchaser will find it in all respects as we represent.

The McIntosh Sciopticon is the only Oil Lantern that will show a plain or colored photographic transparency on the screen 10 feet in diameter, as it should be, the picture being as sharp and distinct as it is possible to make it with the oil light.

The McIntosh Sciopticon has a burning surface of 8 lineal inches of wick, arranged in such a form as to allow all the rays to be caught within the radius of the condenser.

The McIntosh Sciopticon is perfect in combustion, casting a beautifully white and flat field, entirely shadowless. The oil in the lamp remains quite cool, owing to the perfect ventilation inside the lantern.

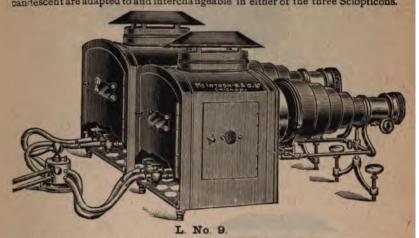

The McIntosh Sciopticon has a special combination of lenses adapted expressly to utilize the whole light of the lamp in producing a uniformly illuminated image, free from chromatic or spherical aberration, and capable of perfect adjustment at varying distances.

The McIntosh Sciopticon is arranged so that the slide carrier, lens holder and brass cell holding the condensers are movable, thus insuring perfect adaptation to all distances and for all purposes where an oil light could reasonably be expected to give satisfaction.

The McIntosh Sciopticon is made in a thoroughly substantial manner, every part being fastened with screws, and will bear any amount of rough usage, to which it must necessarily be subjected, when forming a part of a traveling exhibitor's outfit.

This Sciopticon is therefore furnished in three separate tyles, viz:

| No. 1 | Sciopticon | for use with Oil$40.00 |
|-------|------------|--|
| No. 2 | 44 | " Lime Light 40,00 |
| No. 3 |  | " Incandescent Electric Light 40.00 |
| No. 1 |  | complete, and either of the other Lights 50.00 |
| No. 1 | - 46 | " both " " " 60.00 |

With a pair of Sciopticons as above shown, with a dissolving Key placed between them, very excellent dissolving can be accomplished; either the oxy-hydrogen or oxy-ether light may be used, the dissolver working equally well with either. If one cannot afford to purchase the entire dissolving outfit at one time, this scheme affords a very desirable outfit; since one can purchase a single lantern, and from careful advertising, and judicious management, can soon make enough money to purchase the additional portion of the dissolving outfit, which would be one more lantern, and the dissolving key. All of the lenses used in this lantern are of the same grade, as in the more expensive instruments; full sized condensers 41/2 in. in diameter are used; the objective or magnifying lens is achromatic, and is of first class quality The two lanterns with the Dissolving Key, 10 ft. screen, slide carriers, and slide stop, and the requisite amount of tubing, are securely packed in a neat traveling case, which is, in turn, packed in a heavy outside case for shipment.

PRICE of outfit, as above enumerated......$90.00

The "Sciopticons Dissolving" arranged for use with the Sun-Light Oil Lamps with a dissolving shutter and 10 ft, screen list at $100.00.

The "Sciopticons Dissolving" arranged for use with the Incandescent Electric Lamps, with "Dissolving Switch" and

The Opaque Sciopticon is the McIntosh Sciopticon with what is called an Opaque Attachment, for the purpose of throwing the image of opaque objects on the canvas; it is sometimes called the Polyopticon or Megascope. By its use a cabinet photograph or the works of a watch, can be reflected on the screen, as can also numerous other articles, forming a very pleasant means of entertainment. The lantern slide, or transparency, is not used as in the ordinary lantern, yet in less than a minute the Opaque Attachment can be removed and the lantern used in the ordinary way with lantern slides.

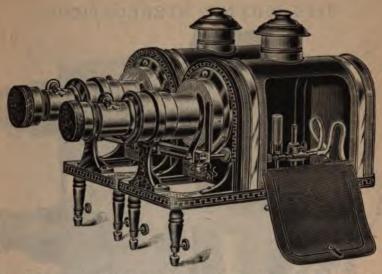

This Opaque Attachment is designed to be used on the McIntosh Sciopticons, Nos. 1 and 2, but it can very easily be adapted to any other lantern

In fitting this attachment to lanterns other than those of our own manufacture, it will be necessary for the customer to send his lantern to us.

EXHIBITOR'S STEREOPTICON.

The Stereopticon shown in above illustration has an iron frame for base 17 inches long, 71/2 inches wide, nicely japanned. The body is of Russia iron, brass trimmed, and all the parts are fastened together by screws in a firm and durable manner. The door in the side is open to show the arrangement of lime and jet within. Convenient means for raising, lowering or otherwise centering the light, and for trimming the lime are provided. The jet is platina tipped and perfectly adjusted for mixed gases. The raised and open base admits air freely, while the chimney is so placed as to draw the current of heated air away from the condensers, and with it the particles of lime that would otherwise settle upon and obscure the The slide carrier is movable, and is fastened condensers. firmly in position by a thumb-screw. The slides may be inserted at the top or side. The sliding brass front is retained in position by a brass collar. Achromatic, double combination lenses for long and short distances, focused by rack and pinion, are furnished with this apparatus. It is made throughout with every attention to detail, so that it can be recommended as a first-class working instrument, that will successfully withstand such hard usage as a traveling exhibitor's outfit must necessarily receive. For the price it is the most satisfactory Stereopticon in the market.

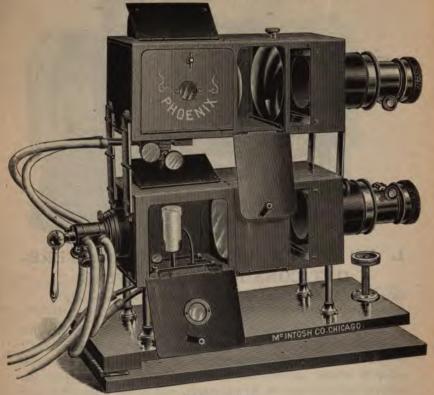

L. NO. 13½ PAIR OF EXHIBITOR'S STERE-OPTICONS FOR DISSOLVING.

PRICE, per pair, with Dissolver, in a neat packing case, with lock and handles, suited for a stand when exhibiting$125.00

The effect of Dissolving Views is one of the most pleasing that the Stereopticon is capable of producing. The term "dissolving" is well chosen, for while the spectators are viewing a picture it can be made to almost imperceptibly fade away, and as it disappears an entirely different one begins to appear, and as the old picture dies out the new one becomes perfectly distinct. The ingenious advertiser can turn this mechanism to good account in keeping up an interest in his display of advertisements. It is usual to employ two separate lanterns, or an apparatus with two or more separate optical parts. A pair of Exhibitor's Stereopticons is admirably adapted to this work.

These Stereopticons can be employed equally well with etheroxygen or oxy-hydrogen lime light, the dissolver working perfectly with either. This apparatus, from its comparatively light weight, substantial make and the absence of all unnecessary accessories is well adapted to an Advertiser's Outfit. The Lanterns may be used singly when necessary, a matter of great convenience for business purposes. They will be furnished at the same price in separate cases if preferred.

THE PHŒNIX STEREOPTICON.

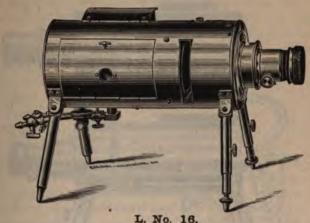

L No. 175.

PRICE$100.00

The Phœnix Stereopticon is the lowest priced double or dissolving lantern of high grade on the market. The body is of polished Russia Iron, handsomely trimmed in nickel, permanently attached to a hard wood tilting board so that it can be easily raised or lowered. It is furnished with our No. 1 Dissolving Key and a pair of first-class adjustable jets so that it can be used equally well with either oxygen and hydrogen or oxygen and ether. The lenses, both condensers and objectives, are imported and of first quality, the former full 4½ inches in diameter, of medium focal length, the latter known as the one-quarter Darlot, made by the maker of that name in Paris. It has good ventilation so that it does not get overheated. A new feature embodied in this lantern, and possessed by no other, is the condenser cell being so constructed that either lense can be instantly removed (independent of the other) for cleaning, or when it is necessary to replace a broken one. It is 18 in. long, 18 in. high, 7½ in. wide and weighs 20 lbs. At the above price is included a telescope canvas traveling case.

THE CHICAGO MODEL SCIOPTICON.

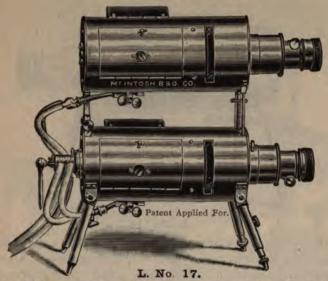

This lantern is a Single Sciopticon, and is essentially the same as the lower lantern of the New Chicago Model Stereopticon, described on the following page. The essential parts being the same, simply a single lantern instead of a dissolving Stereopticon. Those who cannot afford the outlay necessary to purchase the dissolving lantern can purchase this Sciopticon, and commence giving their entertainments and easily make the money necessary to purchase the Top Lantern and Dissolving Key, and then have one of the best lanterns made.

PRICE, in Brass, Nickel Plated, with Canvas Traveling Case...... $62.50

Page 9 we consider very important, and careful reading of it will answer many questions and give you much information. If any question arises, write and we will cheerfully give you all the information we can.

THE CHICAGO MODEL.

The Chicago Model Stereopticon has been expressly designed for the use of the professional traveling lecturer and exhibitor. It is composed of as few parts as is deemed advisable in the erection of a thoroughly first-class instrument. The material is solid brass throughout and nickel-plated. It embodies several features not possessed by any other instrument. Not only are the legs folding, but they are also telescoped, so that no tilting board, or box, or case is necessary to place it on; and the length of legs is so proportioned that the front of Lantern can be easily elevated or depressed. The registering is established by a unique mechanical movement. The lets which can be used for oxy-hydrogen or oxy-ether, are mounted with platinum-tipped goosenecks, sliding backward and forward on a track, or way, that is securely bolted to Lantern body, and can be easily raised and lowered and retained in position by a thumb screw, so that the accurate "centering" of the light can be accomplished in a moment. All the different sized objectives can be easily adapted to this Lantern. It is one of the most compact Lanterns made, and also one of the lightest, weighing less than 25 lbs., and occupying a space when folded up of 18 inches long by 61/2 inches wide by 141/2 inches high. The manner of ventilating is something new and original, making it the coolest Lantern manufactured. The cells that hold the condensing lenses are easily removable; each Lantern has a hinge door into which is set a blue glass window, so that at any time the condition of the light can be ascertained without injury to the eyes by looking directly into the powerful light. The lime carriers are builded upon an entirely new principle, so that any ordinary sized cylinder of lime can be securely held without having to whittle it down to fit. With this Lantern, at price quoted, is included two sets of double system plano-convex condensing lenses fully 41/2 inches in diameter, 6 inches in focus, mounted in brass cells; one pair accurately matched achromatic objectives, or magnifying glasses, free from chromatic or spherical aberration, wide angles, giving different magnifying powers, with telescope movement for the coarse adjustment, and a rack and pinion mechanical movement for the fine adjustment; two improved adjustable jets, with solid platinum points; our new style Dissolving Key, with special "offflow" stop cocks designed for use either with gas bags at low pressure or cylinders at high pressure; also with the etheroxygen or the oxy-hydrogen light; one pair of slide stops, one pair of slide carriers, and a sufficient quantity of rubber hose for connecting up jets to dissolver. The Chicago Model Stereopticon complete, as above described, is securely packed in a substantial telescope canvas traveling case, which in its turn is packed in a heavy outside case for shipment.

PRICE, in Brass, Nickel Plated..... $125.00

All Dissolving Keys should be carefully cleaned before each exhibition, and oiled or greased so that they work smoothly. Take care that no grease remains in the grooves. We put up in ounce boxes a preparation designed especially for this purpose and call it the "Dissolver Lubricator."

PRICE, per box..... $0.25

MCINTOSH COMBINATION STEREOPTICON.

The base of this handsome apparatus is an open frame of iron, ornamented with japan and gilt, with nickel plated legs 4 inches long. The body is nickel plated, with hinged door in the side for adjusting the jet and lime, and peep hole of blue glass, through which the light can be examined without injury to the eyes from its intense brilliancy. The body is also hinged upon the frame, and may be turned back off from the light for convenient manipulation in certain chemical experiments, and also to light the room at the close of an entertainment. The special jet furnished with this Stereopticon is platina tipped; it is shown in detail and described on another page. There is the same general arrangement for ventilation as in the instruments previously described. The solid brass front can be removed and employed for Solar illumination. It is attached to the body of the Stereopticon by a universal ring, therefore those who are already supplied with our Solar Microscope and Stereopticon Combination, and wish to employ artificial light, can obtain the Lantern portion without the necessity of duplicating the optical parts. The opening of slide box is sufficiently wide to admit variety of physical apparatus employed for demonstrating the phenomena suited to Stereopticon lenses. The objective lens may be removed and the Microscope Attachment substituted for it. This apparatus was originally designed as an accessory to the Solar Combination, the optical parts being mutually interchangeable for the purpose of employing the calcium light when sun-light is not available.

Two of these Stereopticons placed side by side make a very fine dissolving apparatus, as all the adjustments are perfect and firm, so that pictures can be accurately registered upon the screen without distortion, and without the constant motion, which is an undesirable feature of many forms of apparatus offered as first-class Dissolvers.

DESCRIPTION.

K represents the body.

O, the Objective.

C, Coarse Movement.

K, Flange cut in threads to fasten in Sliding Tube of Stereopticon.

This Microscope Attachment is designed expressly for projection, and is supplied only with such working parts as are actually necessary. It has the Society Screw, which adapts it to most objectives of American or English make, and also the broad Butterfield Gauge, which admits of using a very large prism for polariscope work. The substage ring will receive Polariscope, Secondary Condenser, Mounted Prisms, and other accessories to experimental work, including all that can be used below the stage on the McIntosh Professional Microscope. The rack and pinion movement permits great delicacy in focusing. This attachment will be found very satisfactory to those using the microscope only for projection. We can furnish other objectives than those named when higher powers are wanted.

THE McINTOSH COLLEGE LANTERN.

WITH VERTICAL ATTACHMENT.

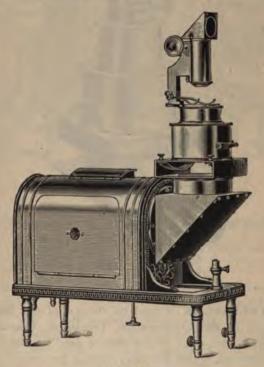

The same description applies to this lantern proper as is given in description of the Combination Stereopticon on page 27. It is here shown with the Vertical Attachment in position, the front being divided just between the condensing lenses, enables the lantern to be used in the ordinary way, or in an instant converted into a Vertical Projecting Lantern. As shown in the cut it is mounted with the Stereopticon Projecting Lens. In the cut on following page is the same Lantern with Vertical Attachment, but in place of the Stereopticon objective, is shown the Microscope Attachment.

In placing an order with us always carefully read pages 9 and 127, 128 and 129 of catalogue.

McINTOSH VERTICAL ATTACHMENT.

PRICE.....$62.50

This Attachment can be used on several of our high grade lanterns, such as the Combination Telescope, Biunial, Royal Photo Opticon, etc., etc. It can also be used on the Heliostat for solar projection, which for microscopic projection affords a method superior to any hitherto used.

The condensing lenses are of first quality glass, plano-convex, 4½ inches in diameter, medium focus, and especially adapted to this line of work. The objective is the one-quarter Darlot. This apparatus is designed expressly for the illustration and exhibition of the various phenomena attending the scientific experiments relating to heat, light, sound, electricity, magnetism, cohesion figures, and crystallization. No prisms are used, but the finest French plate mirror glass, which materially lessens the cost of the apparatus.

McINTOSH BIUNIAL STEREOPTICON.

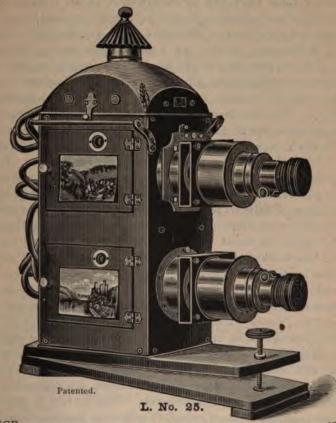

This elegantly constructed Dissolving Apparatus leaves nothing to be desired either in attractiveness of appearance, ease and convenience with which it may be manipulated, or the perfection of the work which it accomplishes. The solid iron frame makes a firm foundation, and prevents any jarring or unsteadiness of equilibrium, while adding no unnecessary weight on account of its skeleton form. The body of the Stereopticon is heavily nickel plated, and all the parts are fastened together by screws. The ventilation is adequate to prevent accumulation of heat in either compartment, and the particles of lime are drawn away from the condensers. The peep holes of blue glass, permit observation of the lights without opening the door. The lower brass front can be detached, and used with the solar apparatus. The upper brass front is adjustable by special screw movement to aid in registering perfectly with the lower. The optical parts are adapted to both sunlight and artificial light, and the oxy-hydrogen or ether-oxygen gases may be employed as preferred. The jets have the same mechanical construction, with screw adjustment for centering the light as the one described on page 87.

The McIntosh Biunial has the finest quality of condensers, mounted in brass, screw cells, and solid brass fronts. The lenses are our latest improved double combination achromatic, adapted to all distances ever required; they are provided with rack and pinion and brass sliding tubes that will draw out, giving various focal lengths for different distances. The stages are arranged to take slides of all sizes, and to permit the attachment of various forms of apparatus employed in scientific demonstration. Some very fine effects may be produced by using the Stereopticon lens on one lantern, and the microscope attachment on the other. A microscopic object can thus be projected upon the screen. In physiological instruction it is convenient to turn from the anatomical to the microscopic structure without waiting to change lenses. A variety of experimental work that will occur to the practical teacher, is facilitated by this apparatus.

The simplicity of construction, durability of material, portability and perfect adaptation of every part to the work to be accomplished is appreciated at sight by all practical lantern men who have examined it, and although it has been before the public but comparatively a short time, the general recognition accorded it by competent judges, as the Best Dissolving Stereopticon yet made, and its ready sale are gratifying proofs of its merit.

THE ROYAL PHOTO-OPTICON.

This magnificent instrument is superior to anything heretofore manufactured in the way of a Magic Lantern. The lantern body is solid brass, burned black; the doors, of which there are two to each lantern, are of bronze and highly ornamental, each door having a landscape thrown up in relief, bronzed. Everything about the lantern is of metal excepting the tilting-board.
This board is in two parts, is of solid mahogany, very thick and strong, to which the lantern body is permanently attached. The large thumb-screw by which the lantern is elevated or depressed is made with three threads to the inch, so that one single turn of the large milled head makes quite a difference on the screen. The top of this lantern is hinged, and when thrown back, discloses the third light; this third light being designed for the illumination of the hall, theatre, or church at the close of an entertainment where they have no electric light, or cannot light their gas by electricity. In an instant when showing the last picture or the "Good Night" chromatrope, you can dissolve right over on this third light, and the hall is brilliantly illuminated so that the audience can readily disperse. Each door is provided with a blue glass window, so that the condition of the light can always be ascertained without injury to the eyes by looking directly into the powerful incandescent lime. The dissolving key furnished with this instrument is of the latest improved pattern, having the new Off-flow Regulating Needle Valves, for the establishment of the off-flow of hydro-No rubber tubing is used inside of the lantern. either side of the mixing chambers a tube of brass passes backward and out of the lantern body. In lieu of having stop-cocks affixed to each tube as in the ordinary manner, separate blocks with needle-valve attachment, are placed on the back of the lantern to which the tubes are attached by short pieces of rubber hose. One feature of these attachments is that you may establish your equilibrium of gases and have your lantern all arranged for work several hours before the entertainment, and by means of these valves you can shut off the supply of gas without disturbing the needle-valves, so that when you light up in the evening you can do so instantly, and yet have a perfect equilibrium established. The jets are both mechanical, whereby the raising and lowering, and moving from right to left or vice versa, and forward and backward movements are all controlled by several milled-head screw movements. This lantern is provided with first-quality Plano Convex Condensing Lenses, four and one-half inches in diameter, mounted in brass fronts so that they can be removed easily for the purpose of cleaning, or if one should become broken through an accident, it can be quickly and easily replaced without disturbing the entertainment. 1/2 objectives or magnifying glasses are achromatic and free from chromatic or spherical aberration. Of medium focal length, they have two magnifying powers, controlled by the finest rack and pinion focusing movement. The lime carriers are also mechanical, since you can raise or lower, or turn from right to left by a milled-head screw on the back of the lantern. Both fronts are of solid brass, removable at will. The upper front can be revolved so that all mechanical slides that have a vertical movement can be used. This is a feature that is rarely possessed by any other lantern. We think that every one who has ever operated a Royal Photo-Opticon, will say that it is more easily managed than the ordinary style of lantern, and that its very appearance is such that it will impress an audience as being one of the finest lanterns made. We only make one style, and one-priced lantern of this pattern. The price of the lantern alone just as depicted in the engraving, without any accessories whatsoever, is $300.00 We make up for this lantern an outfit consisting of the lantern as above described, with one pair of 50-foot cylinders filled with gas, each cylinder being mounted with our Double Needle Valves; one 24-foot screen, one electric signal, one lecturer's reading lamp, one lecturer's stand, one portable screen frame, 200 feet best quality screen rope, 100 plain photographic transparancies, 30 colored wood-mounted slides, for $450.00 net. This lantern is packed securely in a heavy, hard-wood lantern case.

WATSEKA, ILL., Nov. 14, 1889.

THE MCINTOSH BATTERY AND OPTICAL Co., Chicago.

Gentlemen:—The Chicago Model Stereopticon I purchased from you is perfection itself. The more I use it the better I like it, and the more I find to admire in its uniform and beautiful results.

No lantern that I have ever seen can compare with it for Exhibition purposes. The pictures are the clearest and brightest possible and the dissolving effects are marvelous, while the consumption of gas is very little indeed.

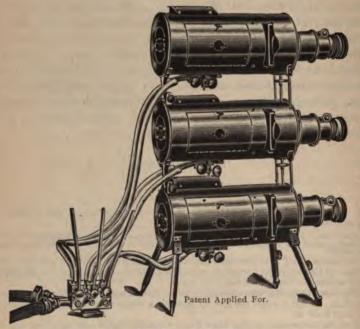

The ease and rapidity with which it can be set up and taken away again is also a great advantage. In fact I would not give up mine for a whole army of any other makes of lanterns I know of.

You omitted to send me the Lime Tongs which the Doctor said should go with the Lantern.

Please send me at once by C. & E. I. freight two 50 ft. cylinders of gas, and oblige, Truly yours,

JOHN B. ASTLEY.

THE SCENIC TRI-OPTICON.

PRICE......$400.00

This instrument was constructed for producing special scenic effects in one of the leading theatres in Chicago (Mc-Vicker's). Its perfect success has induced us to place a description and cut of it in our new catalogue. It is tri-unial in construction, that is, the three lanterns are placed one above the other. The upper one has a clock-work movement for revolving a circular disc of glass on which are cloud effects, etc., for producing movable effects. These, when projected on a screen, have the appearance of moving clouds or figures. The middle lantern has a mechanical movement slide carrier, by means of which, figures, etc., are made to move across the screen, and have the appearance of passing through moving clouds. lower lantern has an instantaneous shutter in front of the lens. worked by means of an air-bulb. With this device, lightning can be flashed on the screen and produce with the cloud effects a perfect representation of a storm By the aid of the triple key, the light of each lantern can be controlled at will; all three jets can be lighted at once, one or more gradually turned up or down, or suddenly flashed on the screen. By means of a peculiarly constructed diaphragm in front of the two upper lenses, a beautiful blending effect can be produced, and the clouds near the edge of screen are so blended that there is no sharp line of light; and figures, thrown on the screen apparently come out of dense clouds and pass off, in the same manner. The lenses are achromatic, of special construction, with so short a focus they will cover a screen forty-six feet wide, when the instrument is placed at a distance of 36 feet. This can be done at an angle of 45 degrees, which allows the instrument to be used back of the flies of a theater stage. We believe this is the first instrument ever made to do this work and to produce these effects. Not only the effects described above, but a great variety can be produced by this combination. This Stereopticon can also be used for producing effects obtained by such lecturers as Stoddard, Philip Phillips, Ragan and others. Each lantern has mechanical platinum tipped jets, triple four and one-half inch condensing lenses, and special achromatic objectives, or magnifying lenses. tubes holding the lenses and condensers are of brass, finely lacquered. The body of the Stereopticon, triple-key, etc., are all finely nickel-plated. The price of this instrument complete, as described, in case, $400.00

The "Knock Down" Lantern has been builded expressly for the use of the Expert Lantern Exhibitor, for the operator who has owned and used other Lanterns and is thoroughly familiar with their advantages and disadvantages.

This "Knock Down" Lantern is designed more expressly for the use of the Traveling Exhibitor than the one who has a place for permanent Exhibit. It "Knocks Down" in every signification of the word. In dismantling for packing, Objectives disengage from Condensers, Condensers remain in situ, Jets detach from steel rods, Hood folds up flat, front and back body frames slide on steel rods engaging the centre frame. The six Bessemer steel rods forming skeleton of body are withdrawn, the Dissolving Key remains in situ on tilting board, and the entire Lantern packs snugly in the case depicted in cut. The case furnished with this Lantern is a strongly made sample trunk that can be checked as baggage with safety. Dissolving Key, Hose for Lantern, one pair 1/2 size Darlot Objectives, two pair 41/2 inches in diameter and 61/2 inch focus Condensing Lenses, one pair Semi-Mechanical Jets for mixed gases (oxy-hydrogen, oxy-ether or oxy-gasoline) are furnished with this Lantern at the list price of $175.00.

Simple in design, of but few parts, yet provided with all the essential points of excellence, it furnishes the exhibitor with an Arc Lamp that can be used on either continuous or alternating current, and on account of its small size can be easily adapted to almost any lantern. Requires no more attention than the ordinary lime light. The moderate price brings it within the reach of every one.

THE McINTOSH ARC LIGHT SCIOPTICON.

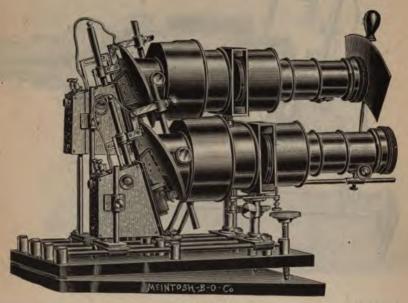

L No. 177.

PRICE,..... net $110.00

The Arc Light Lantern as depicted in above cut is designed for use on the ordinary continuous electric current of 110 volts. The light is noiseless, steady, white and intense. The Arc Lamp itself is automatic in every sense of the word, requiring scarcely any attention during an entire entertainment. The light is so powerful that it can be used in a half darkened room and bring out the picture on the screen bright, clear, sharp and distinct. This lantern can also be furnished with a lamp for use on the alternating current, particulars concerning which will be given on application. With the lantern at above price is furnished a neat carrying case. We also furnish a double or dissolving Arc Light Stereopticon, consisting of two of the above lanterns one above the other, and provided with a dissolving shutter attachment with which the finest dissolving effects can be produced.

This Dissolving Arc Light Lantern, as shown in cut, is designed for use on the "direct" or straight 110 volt current. It can be used on either the arc or incandescent circuit of this voltage. These lamps can also be wound to order for use on the 50 volt alternating current. We carry them in stock for the direct current and make them to order for the alternating current. It is always necessary to use a Rheostat in circuit with each lamp. Some prefer the Dissolving Shutter, others prefer the Dissolving Switch. Either work well and produce beautiful effects.

THE TRIPLE ARC LIGHT LANTERN.

L. No. 163, Price Net.....$400.00

This Triple Arc Light Stereopticon is probably the first of its kind ever manufactured. It was constructed for the use of the Panorama of Kilauea, situate in the Midway Plaisance during the World's Fair. With this instrument vividly realistic scenic effects of the burning Volcano of the Sandwich Islands are effected. This Lantern is used on a 2,000 volt alternating current which through a transformer is cut down to thirty volts. Each lamp has its own Rheostat and its own switch. Either one of the three lamps, either two of the three, or all of them can be used at will. The Rheostat and Transformer can be furnished for any voltage. Each lamp will carry fourteen amperes of current. At the price of $400.00 we furnish everything depicted in cut, Switches, Rheostats, Lamps and Lantern complete and also the transformer not shown in cut. There being so many different systems of current used the Arc Light Lanterns are only builded to order. It requires about two weeks' time to fill an order.

ELECTRIC LIGHT FOR PROJECTION. CUT OF INCANDESCENT LAMP ATTACHED TO BASE

It often happens that a person has a permanent place of exhibition and that he frequently has an electric light circuit at his disposal. The above illustration represents a 150 or 300 candle-power incandescent lamp in socket with spiral carbon, attached to a base, and ready to be used in Sciopticon No. 2 in lieu of either the Sun-light oil-lamp or the adjustable jet. This lamp can be furnished for a current from 50 to 110 volts. With this light a very good 10 ft. picture can be made. The cost of running this light is trifling. The Arc Electric light can also be used, and is the most powerful artificial light that we have, see pages 43 and 47.

This lantern is intended for use where one has the use of the electric incandescent light current. It is provided with full size regular condensing lenses and an achromatic objective or magnifying lens. This lantern is furnished with either the 150 C. P. lamp for a 50-volt current, or a 300 C. P. lamp for a 110-volt current. The lamp must be adapted to the current you have; these lamps cannot be used on currents of different strength, so that this lantern is calculated only for those who are permanently located, not for the traveling exhibitor. In ordering, state which lamp you want. This style of light for exhibition purposes is superior to the oil light and yet inferior by far to the lime light.

Both the Incandescent and the Arc Electric Lanterns can be used as a dissolving lantern by placing two of them side by side and using a special form of switch by which the dissolving effect can be accomplished. For permanent exhibition and advertising purposes there is nothing like the arc light, it is much cheaper for continuous use than the lime light.

We make use of the highest grade self-focusing arc lamp, and test every outfit before sending it out.

Dissolving Key with Adjustable Valves, No. 1.

PRICE..... $12.00

This Dissolver is made especially for mixed gases, and works equally well with the ether-oxygen and oxy-hydrogen gases. It is finely fitted, accurately adjusted, and each one is tested before sending out. The method of making connections with the Lantern and Saturator is clearly shown in the diagram on page 92.

L. No. 33.

Dissolving Key No. 2 with Adjustable Valves and Stop Cocks.

PRICE.....$15.00

This Dissolver is provided with stopcocks to regulate the supply of gases when using the gas from gas bags or when using oxygen from cylinders and ether from the saturators. As the stopcocks are on the Dissolver it is not necessary to have them on the jets or burners.

PRICE......$30.00

The Dissolving key for use with oxygen and hydrogen gases is of improved construction; and with it more perfect dissolving effects can be accomplished than with anything heretofore manufactured. The professional lecturer and traveling exhibitor always use cylinders or tanks to carry their gas in; and into a cylinder 12 in. in diameter by 48 in. in height, as much as 50 cubic feet is compressed under enormous steam pressure. When using gas under this high pressure, it has been difficult heretofore to establish the equilibrium of the gases, to regulate the supply of gas to each lantern, without darkening the screen somewhat when in the act of dissolving. With this new key this difficulty has been entirely obviated; the gases are under such perfect control, the relative proportion so finely adjusted, that from the beginning to the close of the exhibition there is absolutely no difference in the brilliancy of illumination, no matter in what position the lever of dissolving-key may be; whether on the lower or upper lantern or upon both at the same time. This has been accomplished by having each side of the dissolver entirely separate and distinct from the other, so that there is no admixture of the gases, and so regulating the flow of gas, that in identically the same ratio of proportion that you diminish the intensity of the brilliancy of illumination, or technically speaking, the candle power of one lantern; in an exactly corresponding proportion you increase the incandescence in the other lantern. This regulating of the supply and establishing the equilibrium of the gases can be made hours before the entertainment, so that when the time to light up comes, all that is necessary to do is to turn on a full head of gas at the cylinders and touch a match to the jet, and you are, at once, ready for exhibition without further adjustment.

PRICE complete with High Pressure Hose and Couplings...... $30.00

The Triple High Pressure Dissolving Key.

This Dissolver is designed for use with three lanterns; it has three plugs, three levers and three sets of valves, so that each lantern is entirely separate and distinct from each of the others. Either lantern can be used at will, either two of the three may be used together, or the whole three can be thrown on the screen at the same time. For beautiful "effect dissolving" there is nothing like it.

THE McINTOSH CYLINDER GAUGE.

L. No. 29.....PRICE $10.00

INDISPENSABLE TO THOSE USING GAS FROM CYLINDERS.

This is a gauge that the exhibitor has been longing for. Every one who has used gas in cylinders, knows how provoking it is not to know how much gas there is left in a cylinder after the close of an entertainment. This gauge meets the long felt want and is reliable and accurate; it is something entirely new, and we have applied for patent. Its scale is calibrated for four separate sizes of cylinders, known as 20s, 30s, 40s and 50s, and yet another scale for the "pressure to the square inch" in pounds. At a glance one can tell the exact number of cubic feet contained in a cylinder of any of the above sizes, and as the consumption of gas under pressure averages five cubic feet to the hour, instantly determine whether he has gas enough for another entertainment, and thus serve as a guide for ordering a fresh supply of gas. Example—Suppose you have a pair of 40-foot cylinders, and have run an exhibition of two hours and your gauge indicates 160 lbs. pressure, look at the column for the 12x42 cylinder, the number opposite the needle is 29, showing that there is that number cubic feet remaining in cylinder.

McINTOSH DOUBLE NEEDLE VALVE.

L. No. 36.

PRICE......$5,00

All of our cylinders are furnished with the McIntosh Double Needle Valve in place of the old style of Single Needle Valves. The threads on these valves being of standard size can be readily attached to nearly every make of cylinders There being two needles, the establishing of the equilibrium of the gases is very easily accomplished. The Valve that has the wheel attachment being the fine adjustment, and the spindle in top of valve, regulating supply from cylinder. In turning on gas see that the wheel valve is closed tightly; open the spindle one full turn, or turn on as much as is necessary, allowing the gas to come out on to the wheel needle valve; now, with this latter valve, establish the equilibrium, then, as the pressure goes down in the cylinders, all that is necessary to do is to open up the main spindle of valve. In this way you can connect hours before your entertainment, and when ready to commence projecting, all you have to do is to open the main valve and light up, the adjustment already being controlled by the wheel valve.

PORTABLE ADJUSTABLE EXTENSION SCREEN FRAME.

A practicable Portable Extension Screen Frame that can be adapted to all sizes of screens is a great desideratum to the traveling exhibitor. We furnish a portable sectional frame constructed as follows:

It is composed of the required number of sections, each section being three feet in length, one and a quarter inches in diameter, of tough, thoroughly seasoned whitewood. Two of the end sections have a sharp-pointed brad that stick into the floor so that it cannot slip or get out of position; the other two end sections, each have a pulley let into the body of the section through which is carried the screen rope, and is attached to a small screw-eye in the floor in a line with the face of the screen, and at the proper distance from the screen; then two guy-ropes at each side of the screen, one extending forward and one backward, serve to hold the screen immovably in place. This device answers admirably for screens up to twenty feet square. Larger screens than this require a heavier frame.

THE LECTURER'S ELECTRIC SIGNAL.

L. No. 41.

The Lecturer's Telegraph or Electric Signal is something that the lecturer must have. He must have some means of communication with his operator. The old methods of communication have been by means of a small bell; or by the disclosing of the colored signal light in the lecturer's reading lamp; and in some cases if the lecturer uses a pointer, he holds it in a certain position on the screen; sometimes he taps the floor; but there are serious objections to all these methods, as they attract the attention of the audience from the lecture, and by apprising them of the change of views frequently mar an otherwise beautiful dissolving effect.

This Electric Signal consists of a battery of zinc and carbon elements, the only chemical used is the ordinary sal ammoniac, to which water is added, so that the battery is a perfectly clean one; no disagreeable odor; no acid to slop over and ruin the clothing, very easily kept in order, and very inexpensive, costing less than I cent an hour; it also has, what is called, an "Electric Buzzer," the sound of which, can be so regulated as to be heard by the operator alone; 100 ft. of conducting wire, and a push button to be held in the hand of the lecturer. We put this signal up in two grades; the cheaper with ordinary annunciator wire; the better grade, with a tinsel flexible cable cord covered with a braiding of mixed silk and worsted, that winds on a spool as easily as ordinary cord.

IMPROVED READING LAMP.

L. No. 42.

The ordinary Lecturer's Reading Lamp is used with a candle and does not give a good light. The Reading Lamp like above cut is furnished with a miniature oil lamp. Kerosene oil is used. When through using, it only takes a moment to remove the burner and fasten it tightly with a soft rubber cork so that there is no danger whatever of any leakage, and the burner and chimney packs snugly into the hood of the lamp. The call-bell has been done away with, as its use in signaling the operator is annoying, and detracts from the interest of the lecture. It is provided with a colored light signal that answers every purpose. This lamp affords sufficient light so that a type-written or manuscript lecture can be easily read, and at the same time will not illuminate the hall or screen.

THE LECTURERS' READING STAND.

L. No. 44. LIGHT, COMPACT, CONVENIENT, PRACTICABLE.

We make two styles of these portable Reading Stands; one a low priced stand, of Japanned iron, and the other a more elaborate stand of brass, telescoped, finely nickel plated. The cheaper stand is similar to those used by musicians. Both have an inclined rack to hold the manuscript; either stand will hold our Lecturers' Reading Lamp. It can be adjusted to any desired height. L. No. 44 having a sharp pointed screw can readily be screwed into the floor.

SLIDE PROTECTOR.

L. No. 45.

L. No. 46.

A new departure from the beaten track is our new "Slide Protector." The above illustrations represent this latest novelty, with the round-cornered square and the circular opening. The former is 2%x3 inches, and the latter 3 inches in diameter. They will accommodate slides 3¼x4 inches, or the English size, 3¼x3¼, and, moreover, an exhibitor possessing a number of slides mounted in wood can take them from the wood frames and place them in these tin protectors with perfect ease by simply using wood or cardboard fillers at the ends to prevent slipping out of center.

By this means one can do away with the bulky wooden frames and secure a uniformity in the size of all his slides—a great desideratum, as all lecturers and exhibitors know. Besides securing perfect safety from loss by breakage in transportation, slides thus framed will stand almost any amount of rough usage. These protectors are made of light-weight tin, fitting together one side over the other, the edges being bent to fit closely. In placing these on the market we do not ask an extravagant price, but have marked them at a low figure, placing them within the reach of all consumers alike, feeling sure that they will find appreciative and ready purchasers.

DESCRIPTION OF SOLAR COMBINATION.

F is a frame of wood fastened in an openwindow.

M, the mirror attached to the frame on the outside of the window.

R, Rods which work the mirror on a vertical and horizontal axis by means of spur-wheel gears.

Y, Thumb-wheel, which turns the mirror vertically.

W, Thumb-wheel, which turns the mirror horizontally.

J, Stage, through which the slide holder is passed when the Stereopticon lens is employed.

s, S, Spring clips, which hold the slides when the Microscope Attachment is employed.

C, Brass cell, holding the condensers.

E, Brass collar supporting the tube E.

E. Sliding tube for changing the focal distance between the condensing lens and the objectives.

K. Microscope attachment.

O. Objective.

N. Secondary Condenser, which is inserted in the sub stage ring of microscope.

C. Screw for coarse adjustment.

F. Screw for fine adjustment.

DIRECTIONS

For Using the Solar Microscope and Stereopticon Combination.

To employ the brass front of the McIntosh Stereopticon for Solar Projection, it is necessary to remove the condenser next the light, using only one condensing lens with the stereopticon lens L. For Microscope Projection it is necessary to insert a secondary condenses in the sub stage ring of the microscope attachment before fastening is to draw tube E.

The Solar part of this Combination consists of a mirror, moved by spur-wheel gears in such a way that a beam of sunlight reflected from it can be kept in the same direction all day, if needed so long. The room in which it is used should have, preferably, a southern aspect, although an east or west one will answer for a few hours daily. The frame, F, should exactly fit into the window frame when the sash is raised or lowered (according as the lower or upper part of the window is most convenient), and the light should be excluded from the room.

To Darken the Room. Any plan may be adopted that will exclude the light. In our exhibition room the windows have opaque shades, and heavy canton flannel curtains draped back, to admit light. To darken the room the shades and curtains are lowered in a moment. We find this very convenient, and it is a method well adapted to the class-room.

To use the Solar as a Stereopticon. Fix the frame as already described, and revolve the mirror until a beam of light is thrown through the opening in the frame upon the center of the screen; fasten C to the frame, and attach L to the sliding tube E (in place of microscope attachment K, shown in cut). The sliding tube should be moved back so as to shorten the focal distance between C and L as much as possible. Insert the slide (inverted) in opening A and its magnified image will appear on the screen. If the outlines are not distinct adjust the focus by means of the wheel on L.

To use as a Solar Microscope. Remove L and attach K as shown in cut. The focal distance between condenser and the microscope objective needs to be greater than when the stereopticon lens is used, therefore draw out E two or three inches (this distance varies with different objectives), until a bright, white disk appears on the screen. Insert the slide upon which the object to be examined is mounted inside the spring clips ss, and focus the image on the screen by means of c. When very delicate specimens are to be examined, it is advisable to employ an alum tank to absorb the heat rays.

To transform the Solar into a Monocular Microscope. Remove K, and fasten it upon the stand S by the screw b. Slide the draw tube T, which carries the eye-piece into the solar tube K, and it is ready for use. The stand is solid and carefully made, and can be used with objectives of high power. This microscope has the Society Screw and the broad Butterfield Gauge, so that any objectives having the same can be used with it.

As sunlight is much more powerful than any artificial light, and costs nothing, the advantages of this apparatus are obvious. If sunlight were always available, nothing more would be needed; but since the investigator, the instructor and the exhibitor will frequently have occasion to use it with artificial light, the inventor has made his Combination Stereopticon, so that the optical parts are interchangeable with those of the Solar Apparatus. Ether-oxygen or the oxy-hydrogen lime light may be employed, and will probably remain the best substitutes for sunlight until considerable advance is made in the production of the electric light in a more economical and convenient form than at present.

OBJECT TEACHING.

Teaching by illustation has become an established practice of our day, and no instructor can afford to neglect object teaching. principal obstacle in the way of its more universal application is paucity of the school fund, or a failure of the school board to realize the necessity for suitable apparatus. It is customary for teachers to extemporize apparatus, and in a crude way attempt to aid the eye in making plain many branches of study. This is certainly a help to the pupil in understanding the text book, yet it falls far short of what may be accomplished by suitable aids. In this practical age little value is attached to knowledge that cannot be transformed into capital to achieve some useful purpose, and any measures are certain to be appreciated which not only tend to fix in the memory the dry facts of the arts and sciences, but at the same time reveal their practical application. As an incentive to study experimental work is of the highest importance. This point cannot be better illustrated than by reference to experiments the writer witnessed when a boy. learned "by heart" from a text book on philosophy the properties of matter, none of which produced any deep impression at the time, he chanced to witness the death of a little mouse, which had been placed under the receiver of an air pump, from which the air was exhausted; also the bursting of a glass flask from the same cause; and had his hand held by atmospheric pressure on an opening in a glass jar so firmly that he was unable to remove it, until air was allowed to enter the vessel. These experiments made such an impression on his mind that for days he thought of little else, and ever after Philosophy was a new book to him. Many times had he looked at the starry heavens, and had constellations and stars pointed out to him, but it produced only a passing notice. But when he chanced to look through a telescope and beheld the planet Saturn and its rings, astronomy was presented in a new light. It became a pleasure rather than a task to study it. On beholding for the first time a drop of water under a microscope he was astonished at seeing the myriads of living forms, it opened to him a new world of wonders and new desires to study; that boy, though too poor to purchase a microscope at the time, never neglected an opportunity to learn what he could in the department of microscopy, and was never satisfied until he was owner of the coveted prize. The above reference is made simply to show that ideas conveyed to the mind through the eye produce an impression as much stronger on the mind as reality is stronger than a dream. We forget common conversation, descriptions of places and things, but when we visit them, and their forms are conveyed to our mind through the medium of our eyes, they are indelibly impressed on our memory

This is the reason why object teaching yields such grand results. Many children cannot retain ideas which they receive through the medium of books, but when they are accompanied with illustrations the mind easily comprehends the description and retains it.

A want has long been felt by teachers and scholars for some way to illustrate without costly charts and maps, which occupy so much space and are so easily destroyed. This want has been fully met by Dr. McIntosh's Solar Microscope and Stereopticon Combination.

Lessons in drawing may be given by copies prepared upon glass by the teacher, and the light of the room may be sufficient to permit the pupils to work.

Geography, usually so dry and uninteresting to pupils, may be made not only instructive but amusing, by accompanying the text book lessons on the various countries with well selected views of the prominent points of interest, the inhabitants, their customs, occupations, architecture, manufactures, and products of the soil.

Natural history may be illustrated by views of birds, rats, mice, squirrels, frogs, toads, live fishes in tanks with transparent sides. The classifications, resemblances and differences existing in the animal kingdom may be made plain by life-like representations of the various objects of study, more conveniently even than when access can be had to well stocked museums, which are unfortunately too rare to supply the needs of the mass of pupils engaged in studying these subjects.

The demand of instructors for illustrations on these subjects have ied the manufacturers of slides to provide a large assortment, which represent almost all the phenomena that are required for school room or college purposes. Special slides to illustrate additional points can be made to order, and glass cells furnished at small cost, which will enable the instructor to prepare, as needed, specimens of the vegetable and insect world, as they exist in his immediate vicinity.

Geological specimens such as crystals of quartz, feldspar, mica, pyrites and other minerals, may be shown as well as diagrams or maps, of various strata, formations, etc.

Botanical specimens, especially the structure of plants, the germs and minute forms of vegetable life, offer an infinite variety of objects suitable for projection. It is impossible to do more than to refer briefly to a few of the applications of Projection Apparatus, the field of its usefulness extends to every branch of science.

With our Solar Combination it is possible to magnify an object one thousand diameters or a million areas, and still have it so well lighted that a large audience can see it plainly. A view of any given locality may be displayed, and the flora or fauna be projected upon it. The microscopic organisms can be shown on a large field, which affords opportunity to study their actual life, surrounded by their natural media.

List of Articles suitable for Projection. Hairs of animals, held between two pieces of glass; down from wings of moths and butterflies, (these adhere to glass without pressure); scales of fishes; eyes, legs, wings of flies; whole insects; stings of bees and wasps; antennæ of moths and mosquitoes; fibres of cotton, wool, silk, linen, ferns, mosses, lichens, leaves of trees; thin sections of wood; small flowers, stamens, pistils, pollen, seeds; mites in cheese; vinegar and paste eels; butterflies, beetles; animalcules in stagnant water; crystallization of camphor, indigo; sulphate of copper; diatoms; mould, and most microscopic preparations. Suitable objects may be found everywhere; in stagnant pools, in vases where flowers have remained a day or two; an infusion of hay; in most fermented liquids. The larva of a mosquito is a lively and amusing thing when magnified five or six feet in length. Histological research may be facilitated, and its results exhibited on a large scale.

Miscellaneous Subjects that may be Illustrated by Projection. Porosity, cohesion, divisibility of matter, capillarity; crystallization, as in ice flowers, lead, tin or silver trees; gravitation; acoustics; reflection and refraction of light; chromatic abberration; rainbow, mirage; dispersion; Newton's rings; recomposition of white light; absorption bands; spectrum analysis; fluorescence; polarization of light; diffraction; formation of clouds; maximum density of water: galvanometer, calorescence, magnetism, diamagnetism, electricity; decomposition of water; heating by the electric current; acid and alkaline reactions; precipitation; equilibrium of liquids; artesian diver, hydrometer; diffusion of gases; fountain in vacuo; siphon; pyrometer; Torricelli's experiment; Marriotte's law; the manometer; Sprengel's air pump; influence of pressure on boiling point; conductivity of solids; convection; thermo-pile; umbra and penumbra; action of magnets; attraction and repulsion from electrical excitation.

By means of diagrams and photographs the most recent inventions in the arts can be illustrated and explained. The apparatus we have described is adapted to daily use in all schools and educational institutions, and we confidently claim that it will, when intelligently employed, arouse greater interest, and afford a more valuable and varied means of illustration than many times its cost invested in other apparatus designed for object teaching.

TESTIMONIALS.

We have many inquiries in regard to the utility of the solar microscope and stereopticon in the illustration of scientific and popular lectures before classes of students and public audiences. answer, we give a few of the many notices received.

From Philadelphia Medical and Surgical Re-norter Report of American Medical Asporter. Report of American M. sociation, held at St. Paul, Minn.

The last paper at the morning session was read by Dr. H. O. Marcy, of Boston, who had for his subject "Uterine Tumors." The method by which the lecture was demonstrated, the means used being a solar microscope and stereopticon, excited a large degree of interest, owing to the wonderful clearness and brightness of the subjects cast upon the screen.

clearness and brightness of the subjects cast upon the screen.

After the termination of the lecture, in obedience to the expressed wish of many of the physicians, the inventor, Dr. L. D. McIntosh, of Chicago, explained fully the principles of this solar microscope, an explanation that was listened to with much interest and close attention. This solar miscroscope may truly be considered a great aid to scientific investigation. By its aid physiology, pathology, histology can be studied, with illustrations of genuine sections. The circulation of the blood can be mirrored forth with startling distinctness; images of living animalculæ, minute insects and aquatic animals, with all their motions, thoroughly portrayed, and in cases where they are transparent the beating of heart and movement of the internal organs are vividly shadowed forth upon the canvas in a degree of perfection almost beyond belief. It is a combined instrument, and can be used as an ordinary monocular microscope and as a stereopticon. It is, however, very simple in its arrangement, there being no complicated parts that are liable to get out of order. The stereopticon proper is similar in appearance to the ordinary stereopticon, sunlight, however, being used instead of artificial light. This combination adds much to the value of the invention, and its utility is very largely enhanced. Its use is not confined to physicians and scientists, for it is an instrument that should be in all educational institutions of the higher grades. Its use as a means of instruction is of great value, as an object can be shown with equal facility to a large class or audience as to a single person. In the matter of economy, without taking into consideration the superiority of its work, it is in advance of the ordinary stereopticon, as sunlight is cheaper than artificial light. Another feature is that it is exceedingly portable, and can be placed in position in a very short time. The ordinary power is that of 500 diameters, although, with higher objectives, it is capable of attaining a power of 1,500 diameters. Taken altogether, it is truly an invaluable invention, and its use will be of an extended nature. will be of an extended nature.

From Martins' Druggists' Directory. Report of the American Medical Association and Exhibits.

Dr. L. D. McIntosh, of Chicago, occupied a prominent share of the interest taken in the exhibition. One of the most interesting features was a view shown with his solar microscope of a live froy's foot, showing the circulation of the blood through the veins and arteries.

MORRIS. III.

To whom it may concern:

To whom it may concern:
During the past year I have used Dr.
McIntosh's Solar Microscope and Stereopticon in connection with school work.
I recommended our Board of Education to purchase this instrument because I believed it would furnish an excellent means for a vivid illustration of topics in several subjects, and give pupils an added interest in the subjects themselves. I am well pleased with the result. Our pupils in geography have gone with me on imaginary journeys to cities and bodies of water, about which they had studied in the text-book, and not only have they been delighted during the hour thus employed, but they have been better fitted for further study. The Stereopticon has been found exceedingly helpful also with classes in ancient and modern history, and in astronomy.

history, and in astronomy.

The Solar Microscope I have found to be of especial benefit to our classes in physiology and zoology, because with it images of sections of animal tissue, mounted specimens of insects and living animalcules can be thrown upon a screen, and shown at once to an entire class. If Boards of Education will purchase this instrument, and if teachers will use it, I am sure that the money expended, and the necessary time employed, will not be wasted.

Microscopic Illustrations by means of a Solar Instrument at this morning's session of the State Dental Society.

State Dental Society.

The principal interest this forenoon centered in the microscopic illustrations by Dr. L. D. McIntosh, of Chicago. They were exhibited by means of a solar microscope, and the exhibition was a rare treat. The best views were the showing of the circulation of blood in a pollywog, and the musular contraction of a water mosquito. The exhibition was pronounced the most beautiful and perfect ever witnessed. The lenses magnified 700 diameters, and the blood could be plainly seen coursing through the venous and arterial system of the pollywog, displayed on a screen. The muscular contractions illustrated by the water mosquito were wonderful. The insect had been starved in clear water, and then was placed in turbid water under the glass. He at once commenced to feed in a manner that carried terror to the hearts of the animalculæ, and also soon seemed to fill himself, for after springin upon a number of germs, he quieted down. The expansions caused by breathing could be plainly seen, and the actions of his muscles when he sprang, cat-like, were wonderful to behold.

From the Chicago Tribune.

Seventh Annual Convention of the Western Academy of Homwopathy.

Dr. McIntosh entertained the academy with the exhibition of a solar microscope, operated on this occasion with an oxy-hydrogen light. Numerous sections of the lining membranes of the internal organs were exhibited, and other portions of the minute anatomy shown, a most interesting feature of which was the admirable representation of the circulation of the blood in the capillaries. Several insects were thrown on the screen, and an idea of the high magnifying power of the instrument will be given by the fact that a bedbug appeared precisely six feet long, and the wing of a fly twenty feet.

From American Journal of Microscopy. Illinois Microscopical Society.

The annual meeting of the Illinois State Microscopical Society was held at the rooms of the Academy of Sciences, Chicago, April 22, 1881. The minutes of the previous meeting having been read, the Society was then entertained by Dr. McIntosh, who exhibited a new and improved form of solar microscope, combining an oxy-hydrogen attachment. The histological slides shown by this apparatus were fine, and called forth very general admiration.

From the Southern Clinic, Richmond.

Report of American Medical Association and Exhibits.

Dr. McIntosh, of Chicago, exhibits a line of Microscopes, Solar Microscopes, Stere-opticons, etc. This is an elegant display, and Dr. McIntosh has given some beautiful exhibitions with his Solar Microscope, showing histological and pathological specimens.

From the Richmond Dispatch.

Dr. L. D. McIntosh, of Chicago, Ill., has on exhibition his Solar Microscope, a stere-opticon combination. This instrument can opticon combination. This instrument can be used as a common microscope, or as a solar in combination with the stereopticon. The Doctor gave an exhibition last night of the Solar Microscope, with the aid of the oxy-hydrogen light at Exhibition Hall, which was largely attended by members of the association.

A Beautiful Piece of Scientific Mechanism.

Teachers, scholars and all lovers of scientific knowledge should not fail, when visiting the Exposition, to see the McIntosh Solar Microscope and Stereopticon Combination. As a piece of mechanism, based on true scientific principles, it challenges the admiration of all thinking persons. Dr. McIntosh is to be congratulated upon the perfection of his instrument, and the hearty indorsement he is daily receiving for it from those who witness its wonderful workings. it from the workings.

DR. McINTOSH PROFESSIONAL MICRO-SCOPE.

 come of years of experiment to perfect an instrument adapted to the higher grades of work, that could be furnished at a more moderate price than has hitherto been obtainable.

The mechanism is perfect, and finely finished; the arrangements for using all necessary accessories are ingenious and convenient, nothing essential being wanting to make it fully equal to all the demands of professional microscopic investigation. The base is broad and sufficiently heavy to secure firm and steady support; it is provided with soft rubber pads beneath to overcome the ordinary vibratory motion of the table and prevent scratching. The pillar and arm are of solid brass, and the joint connecting them has strong steel bearings. The arm can be removed from the base by loosening the thumbscrew at the back, and the working part of the instrument may be removed for use as a solar microscope, or with the stereopticon for projection. By reference to the diagram the parts are shown separated, K representing the instrument with stand S and draw-tube T removed; the adapter for connecting with Solar Apparatus or Lantern is beneath the stage, but not shown in cut. The device for connecting the stand and arm is independent of the joint, and does not interfere with its movement or weaken it in the least. This is a feature of our Professional Microscope exclusively; the method of fastening R in arm A secures perfect solidity and freedom from motion or unsteadiness as completely as if they were united by a solid junction. The height of stand with draw-tube closed is 15 inches; with draw-tube open, 18 inches. Diameter of bodytube 11/2 inches. The size of this tube adapts it to projection, or photography, as the rays of light passing through the objective are not cut off. It has the Society Screw and the broad Butterfield Gauge, which will admit of using objectives of low power with large lenses of wide angle, and also a large analyzing prism.

Inside the body-tube is an extra spring-tube, carrying a nickel-plated draw-tube: this device insures an even, smooth movement of the draw-tube. The inside diameter of the latter is 11/4 inches, length 7 inches; the lower end has the Society

Screw, which allows the use of objectives of the lowest powers. having long working distance. The size of draw-tube is the same in all standard instruments, therefore an eve-piece of standard size can be used. The coarse adjustment is made with a very smooth-working rack and pinion of long range. The fine adjustment is unequaled; it is without friction, and being adjustable has a very delicate movement that is not liable to get out of order. It is made with a large, graduated milled head micrometer screw, which moves the entire body-tube parallel with the axis of the objective. The large, concentric, rotating stage consists of a brass frame, in which is set a circle of plate glass forming the upper surface of the stage. A slide carrier moves on this plate over the field of the lens, and is held in position by ivory points pressing upon the glass plate forming a part of the carrier; this gives very smooth motion, and reduces friction to a minimum. Beneath the stage are adjusting screws. mirror-bar moves on a graduated circle, carrying the sliding mirror, diaphragm, sub-stage, adapter, etc The bar swings above the stage for illuminating opaque objects. The Durkee Electric Illuminator may be attached to this bar if desired. Special attention is called to the device already described, whereby the working parts are convertible into a solar or projection microscope. Photomicrography, which is now popular with microscopists, becomes convenient with this microscope and a suitable camera. Instantaneous photographs of living animalculæ can be made with direct sunlight, therefore it is evident that an instrument that can be adjusted to this work without impairing its value as a monocular, offers special advantages to the naturalist and investigators generally. We furnish to order objectives adapted to all the various forms of work to which this instrument can be applied, whether for individual study of minute structures and organisms, for projection, or photo-micrography.

THE GENIE HAND CAMERA.

L. No. 66.

- 1. The "Genie" has the best and most ingenious Magazine now in the market, which permits, if desired, a single plate to be exposed and then extracted and developed immediately. Exposures can be made consecutively and more rapidly than with any other Magazine Camera. You can see the picture on a focusing screen before you make the exposure. No other Magazine Camera has this great advantage.
 - 2. It has an ingenious and rapid Shutter arranged for time or instantaneous work.
 - 3. It has the best method of focusing, also both vertical and horizontal finders.
 - 4. It uses the Beck Lens, recognized as the Standard Photographic Lens all over the world. No other Hand Camera now in the market will approach it in this respect.
- 5. It is the smallest and most compact Magazine Hand Camera manufactured.
- 6. It has a perfect method of automatically registering every exposure as soon as made.
- 7. It is the simplest and handiest in its construction of all Hand Cameras.
- 8. The Magazine will hold twelve glass plates or twenty-four Carbutt transparent films.
 - 9. It can be used as a Hand Camera or with tripod.
 - 10. It has a white tablet for recording notes.
- 11. Any Hand Camera can be fitted with our Magazine, Shutter and Lens.
- 12. All working parts of the Camera being of metal, and the Magazine being air and light tight, no moisture can injure the plates or films, making it the best Hand Camera for travelers'

PROJECTION LENSES.

AcLromatic Objectives for Lanterns.

The most desirable feature to be looked for in a Lantern Objective is its defining power; it is not difficult to obtain an objective of any desired magnifying power—what is wanted is a clear. sharp definition, a flat field brilliantly illuminated to the very edge of disc. There are many different makes of objectives on the market, but only a few are worthy of your attention. best Lenses are the Darlot, Voigtlander, Dalmeyer, and Suter. We prefer the Darlot, taking everything into consideration, as the best Lens made for general work. These Lenses are mounted in finely finished and lacquered brass, and have the highest grade rack and pinion action. There are different sizes of Objectives. that are known as "One-Fourth," "One-Third," One-Half," "Two-Thirds," and "Four Four" sizes. While this nomenclature is arbitrary, and the same size lenses by different makers have different powers, yet the law of each lens is a fixed one-at a given distance it will make a certain size of picture. cannot be changed. The law of the different Darlot Lenses is as follows:

A "One-Fourth" makes a disc, or picture, in diameter or square one-half its range.

A "One-Third" Lens makes a disc, or picture, in diameter or square one-third its range.

A "One-Half" Lens makes a disc, or picture, in diameter or square one-third its range, less 10 per cent.

A "Two-Third" Lens makes a disc, or picture, in diameter or square one fourth its range, plus 10 per cent.

A "Four Four" Lens makes a disc, or picture, in diameter or square one-sixth its range, minus 10 per cent.

"'e "Wide Angle" makes a disc or picture, in diameter or wo-thirds of its range.

Example: At 60 feet a One-Half size lens would cut a disc 18 feet square, or in diameter. The figures above given, while not exact to the inch, are accurate enough for all practical work.

Objectives when sold by themselves are Net.

We have just secured a combination set of Darlot lenses, there being three lenses in each set, viz., a "one-half," a "two-thirds" and a "four-four;" each lens ground to the same diameter, in the same size tube makes each lens interchangeable in the same collar, each lens fitting the same rack and pinion attachment, so that changes can be made instantly. Old exhibitors will appreciate the value of this combination.

You will notice in above list The Wide Angle Lens at $11.00. This Objective we have designed especially for short range work. It will make a picture about two-thirds of its range, or, in other words, for every foot you go back from the canvas you increase the size of picture eight inches. It is one of the best lenses made for short range projection. These lenses are all accurately matched in pairs for dissolving stereopticon work.

LIMES.

After a great deal of experimenting with the lime of the various parts of the country, we have finally obtained a lime the quality of which for use in Stereopticons we believe has never before been equaled. We are now making it up into cylindrical sticks two inches long and one inch in diameter, as perfect in shape as lime cylinders can be made, of good even quality, neither too hard nor too soft; their incandescent properties are unsurpassed. We put them up in screw top tin cans containing one dozen each—the cans being so constructed that they can be hermetically closed every time after they are used by the consumer.

We also furnish English Limes; those that have a hole drilled through the center. Also the Disc Limes, such as are used in some of the old style Lanterns at the present day.

SCREEN ROPE.

CHEMICALS.

The chemicals used in making oxygen gas are Potash-Chlorate and the black Binoxide of Manganese. We put them up mixed, ready for use, in packages of 2½ lbs. each in the proportion of four parts of Potash to one of Manganese.

These prices are subject to the fluctuations of the market.

The consumption of gas varies with the pressure at which it is used, therefore with the ordinary gas-bag with pressure boards and weights a certain definite quantity to the hour is used; with the "Compressed Oxygen Outfit" more gas is used, with the

"Self-Condensing Outfit" still more gas is used, so that in each instance more chemicals are indicated; the packages above listed hold enough to make gas enough for 1¾ hours' use with the ordinary gas bag; for the "Compressed Oxygen Outfit" use one and a half packages; three packages will give 100-pounds pressure in the "Self-Condensing Outfit."

Pure Hydrogen is made from Sulphuric Acid, Zinc and water, ordinary commercial Sulphuric Acid and Scrap Zinc.

It is rarely used, most people using carbureted hydrogen, which is the common illuminating gas.

ETHER.

The best grade only of Sulphuric Ether should be used with the Saturator.

Sal Soda is used to make the water in the wash bottle Alkaline. Can be obtained at any drug or grocery store. Ammonium Chloride (Sal Ammoniac) and Mercury Bisulphate are used in the electric signal. Get at any drug store.

Gasoline, not less than 80° flash. We do not sell it.

LIGHT FOR PROJECTION.

SUNLIGHT excels all other forms of light for projection, but as this work, in many departments, is more conveniently carried on at night, it becomes necessary to seek a substitute.

The electric light ranks next to sunlight in brilliancy. A 800 c. p. lamp is made expressly for projection, which produces beautiful results. It can, however, only be employed where it can be connected with a dynamo, which limits its use to such buildings as are supplied with an electric light plant. The light produced from chemical batteries is altogether too expensive and troublesome to be employed except in the laboratory for experimental work. Until the problem of producing a compact, portable and economical battery for the production of the electric light is solved, the majority of projectionists will select the lime-light as practically the best illuminator in the absence of sunlight. A very intense light is produced by forcing a blowpipe flame of mixed hydrogen and oxygen gases upon a stick of unslacked lime. There are four varieties of this light, known as the oxy-hydrogen or Drummond light, the hydro-oxy-calcium light, the oxy-calcium or Bude light, and the ether-oxygen light. In the oxyhydrogen, two gases are supplied to the jet from separate gasholders, and mix before issuing from the jet. This form of lime-light requires much more expensive and cumbersome apparatus than the others, but has been most used because the most powerful. In the hydro-oxycalcium, coal gas is used direct from the house fixtures, and does not mix with the oxygen until it issues from the jet. This is the most simple form, but is only about half as powerful as the oxy-hydrogen, and its use is restricted to buildings supplied with coal gas. In the oxy-calcium, an alcohol flame supplies the hydrogen element; it is only about a quarter as powerful as the oxy-hydrogen, but is used in out-of-the-way places to save the trouble and expense of cumbersome hydrogen generators and gasholders. In the ether-oxygen light, ether vapor is substituted for hydrogen or coal gas in the oxy-hydrogen blowpipe, in such a simple and satisfactory manner that it possesses important advantages over every other means for producing the limelight. This is accomplished by passing a small portion of the oxygen through a saturating chamber of peculiar construction, in which it takes up ether vapor which it conducts to the jet by way of the hydrogen key. The mixture burns like hydrogen or coal gas, and is brought to a focus in the usual manner, by admitting oxygen direct from the gasholder. This method is as simple and cheap as the oxycalcium, as powerful as the oxy-hydrogen, and more convenient than either. Gasoline can be substituted for ether, and the intensity of light and expense of running are then the same as for the hydro-oxycalcium, but with the advantage that its use is not restricted to buildings supplied with house gas, and the apparatus is complete for producing the more powerful light, with ether whenever it is wanted.

THE McINTOSH-IVES SATURATOR

FOR THE PRODUCTION OF

The most Brilliant and Powerful Oxy-hydrogen Lime-light. A Perfect Substitute for Hydrogen or Coal-gas. Stored without a Gasholder, and Ready at all Times. Supplied to the Blowpipe by Simple Mechanical Means, without Heat, and ABSOLUTELY WITHOUT DANGER.

Previous to the invention of Ives' saturating chamber, two or three experimentalists in Europe used ether in a "wash-bottle," forcing oxygen through the liquid in bubbles. The method was not a success, because the light flickered badly; the adjustments had to be changed frequently to keep it at its best; the ether chamber could not be disturbed without affecting the light, and to upset it was dangerous. Heat was also tried to vaporize the ether, but it proved troublesome and unsafe.

The construction of Ives' Saturator is such that there is no heat, no bubbling, no obstruction to the free passage of the oxygen, and it can be disturbed or upset without affecting the light or spilling any ether into the tubing. After one adjustment of the light, it will automatically regulate the supply of vapor to correspond to any variation in the supply of oxygen, thereby making the light almost as easy to manage as a coal-oil lamp. This is a very important advantage, which is possessed by no other means for supplying the hydrogen element to the oxy-hydrogen blowpipe.

FREEDOM FROM DANGER.

Some, who have not seen this vapor light operated, suppose that the mixture in the Saturator must be explosive, and consequently more or less dangerous. It has been proven that with other kinds or forms of saturating chambers, or with any form which has a filling that is improperly arranged or made of unsuitable material, this supposition might be quite correct; but all Saturators wench are manufacturea under our supervision (it is unlawful to use any others with a porous filling) will be found to operate so perfectly that it is only necessary to pass a very small portion of the oxygen through them, and the mixture will burn like house gas, without a particle of danger, and without the slightest irregularity. The details of construction were not settled upon until about a dozen shapes and sizes were tested in a most careful manner, with several different kinds of filling; it was found that while the form, size and arrangement finally adopted by the inventor would meet every possible requirement, some apparently insignificant deviations therefrom would make a saturator quite unreliable and unsatisfactory for use with lime-light apparatus.

Since coming into our hands we have experimented extensively with a view to still further improving both its safety and its efficiency. We have made some half dozen improvements suggested by prolonged experience in working single and dissolving lanterns, and have no hesitation in pronouncing it, in its present form, superior in safety, convenience and quality of light produced, to hydrogen or any other substitute for it, in the production of the calcium light in its perfection.

Any good oxy-hydrogen "mixed-gas" jet can be used, but those having a comparatively small aperture and a small mixing chamber are best. Oxygen may be supplied from either a bag, gasometer or cylinder, in the usual manner.

The McIntosh-Ives Ether Saturator is made in 2 sizes; Nos. 1 and 2.

L. No. 133, No. 1 Tube. PRICE$15 00

No. 1, or smaller, consists of one cylindrical nickel-plated brass tube, having a diameter of 2 inches, and 13 inches in length, with a porous filling having a zig-zag channel cut into the center of the top 3% of an inch in width, and 1% of an inch deep, and about 25 inches in length, to allow the free passage of oxygen gas. On the upper surface of each end is a stop cock with nipples for the attachment of the rubber connections and also for filling with ether. This No. 1 Saturator is an improvement on, and has been designed to supplant entirely, the 2 Tube Saturator which we no longer make.

NO. 2, OR 3-TUBE ETHER SATURATOR.

L. No. 134, PRICE.....$20 00

The No. 2 Ether Saturator is in every respect similar to the No. 1, excepting that it consists of three tubes, each constructed in the same manner as the tube in the No. 1 Saturator, and held together by clamps, as depicted in above cut. This size is designed for use with the double or dissolving stereopticon. The caps should be removed only when the porous filling needs drying out, and should be replaced on the tube having the same number. The Saturator will more than replace the cumbersome hydrogen generator or cylinder costing two or three times as much. The smaller one weighs only 134 pounds, while the larger one only 444 pounds. Aside from the directions for operating the McIntosh-Ives Ether Light as given in the following pages, a few general remarks may be given.

DIRECTIONS FOR FILLING

THE-

ETHER SATURATOR.

Use a high grade of ether only, that used by surgeons for anæsthesia preferably; always be sure that you have a sufficient quantity of ether in the saturator; to fill the saturator is best accomplished as follows: Pour in ether at either stopcock until full; holding saturator in a vertical position, then invert and let it trickle and drain back into the can until it escapes drop by drop; this shows that the porous filling is thoroughly saturated. One thing that we wish to guard you against is the temperature in the room in which you are using the Oxy-Ether Light, and, that is if the temperature of the room is below 60° Fahr, you should use artificial heat to warm the saturator; simply wrap the saturator in several thicknesses of ordinary flannel, and place thereupon a hot brick, or a bottle of hot water, so that the ether is made warm enough to volatilize readily. One more essential point; if you are using a gas bag, a sufficient weight must be placed thereon, never less than 300 pounds dead weight; even with this heavy weight, the pressure is only a little over 31/2 ounces to the square inch. Careful attention to these details will insure a good light. All of the jets and compound dissolvers manufactured by us can be used with either the Ether Oxygen or Oxy-Hydrogen, or with the Oxy-Calcium Light.

GENTS.—After 31 nights consecutive use of the McIntosh-Ives Ether Saturator as a substitute for hydrogen gas, in exhibiting the Government collection of Brady's War Views. I am pleased to state that it has proven satisfactory beyond my most sanguine hopes. I have used it both with gas bag and cylinder, and experienced no trouble whatever with it, and I consider my light equal to that produced by mixed gases in the usual way. The thanks of all exhibitors are due you for having eliminated from the business, the danger, trouble and disagreeable features of making and handling hydrogen gas. I use only the best ether, and even then the expense is only about 25 cents per hour.

Very truly yours,

JOHN D. CRESS.

McIntosh B. & O. Co.:

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 17, 1889.

DEAR SIRS.—Letter and lime at hand and all is satisfactory. Thanks for kindness. Permit me the pleasure of testifying to the worth of your Ether-Oxygen light. Havin used your Saturator for six months, I am more than satisfied with it; I am delighted. It so simple in its method of operation that a child might be taught in ten minutes' time; use it with perfect safety. It has never falled me in a single instance. It is the universigned ment that its light is better than that of the Oxy-Hydrogen. Your stuly, F. S. TINCHER, 244 Ash St.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 15, 1888.

McIntosh Battery and Optical Co.:

SIRS.—Will you please send me catalogues of your Stereopticon and Microscopic Apparatus. I have used one of your Ether Saturators for two years and never have failed to get satisfactory results. On the night of election I threw the returns on the front of a building across the street for six hours without refilling the Saturator once, and do not know how much longer it would have lasted, as we tired out before that did. I used three large bags of gas.

Yours,

24 F. Genesse St. Syrgeys N. Y. 24 E. Genesee St., Syracuse, N. Y.

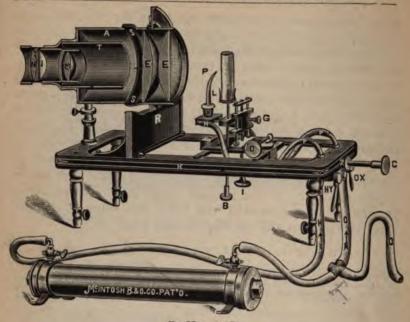

FRANKLIN, LA., August 18, 1888.

Dr. McIntosh:

DEAR SIR—Please mail to me your latest catalogue of Lanterns, Saturators and Views. I trust you are doing very well in your business. You deserve success, for you are always at work inventing or improving. My jets and saturator and bag I bought from you nearly three years ago are as good as new yet. I experience no difficulty in working the dissolving lanterns with the Ether-oxy light by myself, and lecture at the same time. This is surely praise for your apparatus, and only the truth. I hope you are making improvements in the Saturator, in jets and lanterns, and am anxious to see your very latest cuts and circulars.

Hoping to hear from you, I am, as ever, yours

DIRECTIONS FOR OPERATING THE McINTOSH-IVES ETHER LIGHT.

To FILL THE SATURATOR. - Connect a small tin funnel by a piece of rubber tubing with the nipple at one end of saturator, open both stopcocks, holding the saturator in a perpendicular position while filling; when full drain saturator into the ether can for a few seconds, or until the ether only escapes drop by drop at the lower stopcock.

Reserve fill near a light. Keep at least ten feet away from any flame when filling the Saturator, and never allow any chamber containing ether to become heated. Remember that ether vapor (unlike hydrogen and coal gas) is heavier than air, and diffuses rapidly downward; also, that it vaporizes much more readily in a warm than in a cold room. The ether is held in place in the cloth filling by capillary attraction, which does not act perfectly for a height of more than two inches; for that reason, the filled Saturator should always lie on a nearly level surface, to prevent the ether from draining into one end. It works better to be placed on a level with the Lantern (see cut). Do not connect with the jet and oxygen supply until ready to start the light.

To CONNECT WITH THE LANTERN.—Connect one tube of the Saturator with the Hy key of the lantern, and the other with the T tube, as shown in cut. It is important that the ether vapor be carried through the hydrogen key of lantern. See that all keys are closed before connections are made, and be careful that there is no leakage of gas when connections are complete.

CAUTION. 1.—Do not raise the Saturator while making connections, lest free ether run into the tube OI. Carelessness in this respect may lead to destruction of the gas bag. It is a useful precaution to bend up the tube O above the level of the Saturator at one point, so that no free ether can run back into the gas-bag.

2.—Never connect the Saturator with the Lantern by the same tubing that is used in making gas. Particles of chemicals carried into it during this process are liable to be blown into the jet, and stop the flow of gas, which extinguishes the light.

THE LIME should be kept perfectly dry; do not place it in the holder until ready to light up. It should turn as close to the jet as possible without touching it. If cracked or rough from the action of air or moisture, it interferes with the perfect working of the light, produces hissing, and is liable to break, necessitating a stoppage of the light to replace it. Since the intense heat destroys the lime by degrees, it is necessary to occasionally turn, raise or lower it slightly to expose a fresh surface to the flame, otherwise the light will grow dim.

THE OXYGEN RESERVOIR.—If a gas-bag is used to hold the oxygen, it should be laid between two pressure-boards of suitable size to protect it from cracks or splinters in the floor below, and cutting edges of the weights above. Anything that is convenient may be used for weights: kegs of nails, stones, etc. Coarse bags filled with sand make convenient weights. They should be adjusted so that they cannot coll off. 250 pounds is best for a single lantern, and 300 pounds for dissolving. The greater the pressure up to a certain point, the more brilliant the light; the gas is used more rapidly than necessary for most kinds of work, with the larger weight named. The nearer the upper edge of the pressure-board the weight are placed, the greater the pressure. As the gas in the bag diminishes, the pressure lessens, so that to maintain the light in its original brilliancy, additional weight should be added from time to time, or an adjustment of valves be made at first, so that they can be opened more widely as the pressure diminishes. Never remove any of the weight from the bag while the light is burning.

DIRECTIONS FOR USING THE OXY-ETHER LIGHT WITH GAS BAG AND SATURATOR.

TO START THE LIGHT WHEN A GAS-BAG IS EMPLOYED.—See that all valves are closed; that the bag is properly weighted; that all connections are made as previously described, and that there is no leakage of gas. Draw the jet away from the condenser by rod C, adjust the lime, then open the key Hy, and next the stop-cock of the gas-bag; wait a second or two for the air to be driven out of the tubes, then ignite the mixture of gas and vapor which issues from the jet; let it burn two or three minutes to heat the lime, then open the oxygen key at Ox (slowly); when this key is wide open, partly close the ether key Hy (very slowly) until the lime gives out the most steady and brilliant illuminatior.. If there is a hissing sound heard, partially close the oxygen key Ox (very slowly) just sufficient to stop the hissing. If the light grows dimmer after two or three minutes, the ether key should be adjusted again. It will need no further attention except in a very cold room after evaporation of ether has considerably reduced the temperature of the Saturator, when it may be necessary to open the Hy key almost wide toward the close of the exhibition. The light is best when the ether vapor is slightly in excess, which may be known by the orange tinge at the top of the flame.

The first step in extinguishing all forms of the Lime-light is to draw the jet away from the condensers.

To Turn Out the Light when a Gas-bag is Used.—Close the oxygen key Ox first, then the ether key Hy (very slowly); lastly, close the stop-cock at the bag. Disconnect the Saturator immediately, and close stopcocks.

DIRECTIONS FOR USING THE OXY-ETHER LIGHT WITH CYLINDER AND SATURATOR.

To Start the Light when Oyxgen is Supplied from a Cylinder.—Open the ether key Hy first; then turn on the oxygen at the cylinder and ignite the mixture at the jet. When the lime is sufficiently warmed, turn the flame high, then open wide the oxygen key Ox, and turn on a little more pressure of the oxygen at the cylinder; adjust by very slowly closing the ether key Hy, until the best light is obtained. When adjusted, the light may be increased or diminished within certain limits, simply by turning the cylinder key.

tain limits, simply by turning the cylinder key.

If there is a whistling or hissing of the flame, it may be caused by too great pressure on the gas, by a roughness in the platina tip of the jet, by cracks or holes in the lime, or the proportion of the gases in the flame may not be properly adjusted.

To Turn Out the Light when Oxygen is Supplied by a Cylin-Der.—Open the ether key Hy wide, close oxygen key Ox, then the cylinder key (very slowly).

To Avoid Snapping Out the Light Observe the Following Rules: See that there is no leak in the burner, tubes or Saturator. Always fill the Saturator before using, and use only a good quality of ther. Use a full flow of oxygen gas, sufficient to produce a bright

Dry out the cloth tubes at least once in two weeks, if the Saturator is used every night. This can be done by unscrewing the caps that are numbered, and removing the cloth tubes and placing them out of doors, until the ether has evaporated and they are thoroughly dry; then replace them in the Saturator. Fill the threads of the screws in the caps with common bar soap, and screw them on the tubes numbered to correspond; this makes them perfectly tight.

If, when the oxygen key is closed to turn out the light, the lime continues to give out a bright light, even after the Saturator is turned on its side, it is an indication that the supply of ether is almost exhausted. This need not occur, because the Saturator will hold more than enough to supply a suitable proportion for an ordinary size bag of oxygen; but if it does occur, the flame will give a harmless "snap" when turned out, or retreat into the Saturator, and blow off the rubber tubes, if the pressure of oxygen is insufficient. case the flame can be instantly smothered with a handkerchief or the hand, and no damage can be done.

INDORSEMENTS.

WILLIAM A. ANTHONY, Professor of Physics at Cornell University, was the first to test the new light carefully in comparison with the oxy-hydrogen. He used two "mixed gas" jets exactly alike, one supplied with ether from the patent Saturator made by the inventor, the other with hydrogen from a gasometer. He says: "With the same pressure of oxygen, the ether light is better than the hydrogen. * * In the qualities of steadiness, freedom from noise, etc., it is certainly equal to any lime-light, and in convenience of manipulation, especially for traveling exhibition, it is far superior to either hydrogen or house gas."

The ether Saturator is just what I have been looking for for years. Having used it ever since you put it on the market, I have only words of praise for it. It is clean, safe, inexpensive and always ready for work. Although I have gas bags, cylinders, etc. for hydrogen, I never use them. The ether Saturator is far more convenient, gives a light equally as bright as hydrogen, and is perfectly free from danger of any kind. If now you can devise something that will take the place of the ordinary oxygen appliances, as the ether Saturator has taken that of hydrogen you will confer a great favor on all users of the lantern.

J. A. ZAHM, C. S. C.,

Prof. Physical Science, University of Notre Dame.

I have used nearly, if not all, kinds of illumination for the lantern, coal oil, the electrical (arc) light, and all forms of the oxy-hydrogen or calcium light. For convenience, safety, ease of manipulation and results, I prefer the oxygen and ether (McIntosh-Ives Saturator) to all others.

During the last year I was connected with the Woman's Medical College, this light was constantly used, often by those who had no especial knowledge in manipulating the light, and no accident occurred, save, possibly, the blowing off of the tubes.

PLYM. S. HAYES, A.M., M.D.,

Late Prof. of Chem. and Toxicology Woman's Med. Coll., and Prof. Analytical Chemistry, Chicago College of Pharmacy.

My lantern pleases me very much. For projecting anatomical structures, both by photograph thereof and the specimen itself, with microscope attachments, was satisfactory to myself and to the three hundred and more students and friends who attended our course of seven evening lectures, as per inclosed card. The ether Saturator, which I handled with some timidity at first, is no longer any source of anxiety, but ratner I have every confidence in it, and the light is elegant. For my work in the medical college as teacher of physiology and histology, I don't want to ever 'ry to lecture without the lantern outlt.

E. S. BAILEY, M. D., Registrar of Hahnemann Medical College Chicago, and Professor of Physiology and Histology.

Six years' experience with your Stereopticon, with Microscope Attachment and the Ives' ether oxygen light, in illustrating my lectures on Diseases of the Nervous System, at the Woman's Medical College, enables me to speak with some degree of authority about it. We use it at almost every lecture in the course, and we find it so simple in its construction, and so perfect in its action, that any person of ordinary capacity can, in a few minutes, learn to manipulate it successfully. We are confident that it materially elucidates the complex subject we teach, affording us much satisfaction, and the students much profit.

We lecture in the spring course in another college, in which a very much more expensive apparatus, of English construction, is used, and we can say with emphasis that the illumination and smoothness of work is very much in favor of your excellent combination.

We commend the apparatus to all teachers as fundamental combination.

We commend the apparatus to all teachers as furnishing the best and cheapest method of illustrating their work. I might say that such is the power of the light, that we can satisfactorily show our slides in a room light enough for easy note taking.

D. R. BROWER, M. D.,

Prof. Diseases Nervous System in Woman's Medical College, Chicago.

"Mr. Ives, of Philadelphia, has devised an ingenious arrangement, at once simple, compact and effective, for dispensing with the use of hydrogen or illuminating gas in using the oxy-hydrogen jet for lantern demonstrations. It gives a brilliant light, which compares favorably with that obtained in the usual manner with hydrogen or burning gas. The portability and convenience of the apparatus will commend it to the favor of exhibitors and lecturers."—From the Manufacturer and Builder, N. Y.

"The rapidly increasing use of the lantern in schools, public lectures and exhibitions, has led to a number of experiments to reduce the cost of the lime-light. In a few large cities the gases are easily obtained in commercial quantities, stored in iron tanks, ready for use, and at comparatively low prices. The tanks are troublesome to carry, and in smaller towns the gases must be made on the spot as required; and this involves expensive and troublesome apparatus. Every effort has been made to find a substitute for one of these gases. Ether has been tried several times, but has been considered too dangerous. More recently an apparatus for saturating the oxygen with the vapor of ether has been devised, that appears to remove all danger of explosion. A light is obtained that, as far as observation goes, is quite as good as the ordinary limelight. The invention has the merit of saving all the trouble of making or carrying hydrogen, as the whole apparatus can be carried in the hand, while ether can be obtained anywhere."—From the Century Magazine.

"We have tested your new lime-light and

"We have tested your new lime-light and found it a good substitute where gas is not obtainable."—From E. & H. T. Anthony &

"I have nothing in the light line that pleases me, so well. It is as simple as coal oil, and cannot but be perfectly safe. All that can happen is for the rubber caps to blow off. The tubes cannot explode with the blowing off of the caps—when the caps fy off even this cannot happen. I used Marcy's mixed jet, the same as I used for pure hydrogen and oxygen. No one will use two bags any longer, now that Ives' Saturator can be had."—Dr. S. N. Gish, in The Magic Lantern.

"We have no hesitation in saying that the ether-oxygen light, as produced by the Ives' Saturator, can be made to dissolve as smoothly and as perfectly as the oxy-hydrogen light in the old way. We do not wish to be understood as saying that every lantern, or every jet, will produce perfect dissolving effects with the Saturator without some adjustment. some jets undoubtedly will, while others (presumably those having a large mixing chamber at base of the jet) may require to be differently adjusted; but we are firmly convinced that all jets, not capable of being used with the Saturator, can very readily be adjusted for the purpose."—Edward L. Wilson, in The Magic Lantern.

"I respond with pleasure to your request for my experience with the ether Saturator for the last two years, for dissolving effects. It has certainly been most satisfactory. So much so that I would not use the oxy-hydrogen, for reasons that the ether is safer the light whiter, and I am satisfied the light is just as strong. Especially is the light is ronger and more brilliant if the oxygen is made new and from pure quality of potash each time."

each time."

JÖHN S. ATWATER.

"I have used one of your Stereopticons with your McIntosh-ives' Saturators for about two years, and am free to express not only my entire satisfaction, but pleasure in working the same. I have given many exhibitions, both public and private, and find the light clear and brilliant, with great illuminating and magnifying power. I have projected views of different diameters from 8 to 20 feet, and have always given perfect satisfaction to my audiences as well as to myself. The use of the Saturator! believe to be entirely safe, and I have always found it easy to manage. Any one of ordinary judgment can work this Saturator without risk and with success. The time required for me to manufacture the oxygen gas and get everything ready for exhibiting never exceeds thirty minutes. I cordially recommend, not only your Saturator, but also your Stereopticon to all who wish to give successful entertainments."

"Frequently during the past year I have had occasion to use one of Dr. L. D. McIntoch's Improved Stereopticons, and have found it an excellent instrument for projection. The dissolving arrangement is perfect and is well adapted to either the oxy-hydrogen or etheroxygen light. I use the ether-oxygen light, and cannot speak in too high terms of the simplicity and ease with which this light is operated. The Saturator is a wonderful saving of time and labor."

DIRECTIONS FOR THE MANAGEMENT OF OXY-HYDROGEN LIGHT WITH GAS BAGS .-- When ready to light up, shut off the keys the jet and turn on the bags. those at turn on the hydrogen key at the jet, and light the gas. Place the lime at the proper distance, and let it become quite hot before turning on the oxygen. The oxygen should be turned on slowly until it appears to mix with the hydrogen in proper proportion, and gives a full, brilliant illumination. An excess of either gas will cause a hissing without producing a good light. An excess of hydrogen is indicated by a profuse red flame around the lime, and an excess of oxygen by no red flame, and a deficient illumination. The gases should be carefully adjusted till they flow noiselessly, giving out a little red flame, and making the whole surface of the lime against which they are projected glow with an intense white light. Having secured a good illumination, let the screen be blank and proceed to adjust the jet. Move it up and down until the light seems alike at the top and bottom, then forward and back until the whole disk is evenly illuminated. With these arrangements carefully made, the exhibition may proceed smoothly and without interruption, it being only necessary that the lime should be turned occasionally, and more gas turned on as the bags get lower. When the exhibition is over, turn off the oxygen at the jet, then the hydrogen at the jet, and immediately close both keys at the bags; detach the hose from the jet, and proceed to pack up. As soon as the bags are taken into the open air, the keys should be turned and any gas remaining allowed to escape.

In cities and towns where house gas is used, it is not necessary to make hydrogen gas. The bag can be filled from a bracket, either at the place of exhibition or at home, before starting out. It will be found preferable to fill both bags beforehand, when the apparatus is to be taken short distances in a wagon or on the cars, rather than have the trouble of materials, retorts and gas-making at the place of exhibition.

To use this dissolver with oxy-hydrogen disconnect the Saturator from H and

It is important that the connections be made exactly as shown, for the construction of the mixing chambers is such that when the gases are reversed the light cannot work satisfactorily. As the lever L is turned to the right the light is turned on at Jet No. 2; if turned to the left, a slight blue flame remains at No. 2, and the full light appears at No. 1.

DIRECTIONS FOR DISSOLVING WITH THE OXY-ETHER LIGHT, WITH EITHER GAS-BAG OR CYLINDER PRESSURE.

The most common obstacle to perfect success in dissolving with the ether-oxygen light is the snapping out of the flame. A few suggestions regarding this may be of use to the amateur. Many of the keys in the market are not adapted for use with ether; when this is the case they must be sent to the manufacturer to make the necessary alterations. Very accurate adjustment is needed when the cylinder is used to supply oxygen, to secure against "snapping," and at the same time to avoid a considerable lessening of the amount of light at the half-way point. In a very cold room evaporation may be retarded, and consequently an insufficient supply of ether vapor be furnished. The remedy is to heat flannel or any similar material, and wrap about the Saturator. Persons unaccustomed to handling this light may turn on too much oxygen or too little ether, when a snap will sometimes occur. Too small pressure on the oxygen may produce the same result.

At the risk of being prolix, we will recapitulate and give the following essential points:

Blow through all the tubing, dissolver and saturator before connecting up to assure yourself that there is no obstruction in them.

Use only the highest grade of sulphuric ether that you can obtain. See that there is plenty of liquid ether in the saturator.

Never use less than 300 pounds weight on the oxygen gas-bag. Connect up as shown in cut on preceding page.

Bear in mind that pure Hydrogen is a very light gas, and that in using as a substitute for Hydrogen, gases derived from Hydro-carbons, that it is necessary that they shall also be light and volatile. Ether vapor, in a cold temperature, is heavy, sluggish and non-responsive. In a warm temperature it is light, volatile and responsive. Therefore, if using ether in a temperature below 65° Fahrenheit artificially warm the Saturator by wrapping same in two or three thicknesses of flannel, and placing thereon a bottle of warm water or a warm brick.

Comply with these instructions and you will have no "snapping" or "popping out," unless the "Off-Flow" valves on the Saturator are too closely adjusted. The right side of the Dissolver should be connected to the lower or right hand lantern, the left side of the Dissolver to the upper or left hand lantern. When burning bright on the lower or right hand lantern, the "Off-Flow" is in the upper or left hand lantern, and the height of this "Off-Flow" flame should be about 2½ inches. This is regulated by the little thumb screw valve on the left side of the Dissolver. When burning bright on the upper or left hand lantern the "Off-Flow" flame is then in the lower or right hand lantern and should be adjusted to about 2½ inches in height, by the thumb screw valve, the "Off-Flow valve as it is called, on the right side of the Dissolver.

The "popping" and "snapping" in dissolving, sometimes comes from low pressure in the cylinders. Therefore, as the pressure runs down in using, you must frequently open the valve of the cylinder.

To Turn Off the Light when the Dissolving Key is Used with the Ether Saturator.—Move the lever L to one side, turn off first the light that burns low, in regular order, namely: First the oxygen key, then the ether key; next, without moving L, turn off the oxygen key from the bright light; then the ether key, and instantly turn off the key at the oxygen reservoir.

DIRECTIONS HOW TO MAKE OXYGEN GAS.

This gas is the product of chlorate of potash when submitted to heat, assisted in its decomposition, and the flow of gas moderated by black oxide of manganese. To fill a 30x40x30 gas-bag, the quantity necessary to run a lantern for dissolving about one and a half hours, take 32 ounces of chlorate of potash and 8 ounces of black oxide of manganese. Mix well together, and place in the retort, after seeing that the latter is thoroughly dry and free from old residues, if it has been used before.

The accompanying cut will show the arrangement of the retort, wash bottle, and bag. An alcohol lamp is here shown, but a Bunsen burner, or any fire that will give sufficient heat, will do. A good heat should be applied at first, but as the gas begins to pass over freely, a more moderate heat is needed to make the gas flow with regularity. however, all heat be removed before the retort be disconnected with the wash bottle, water may be sucked back into the retort and R represents our copper retort fitted at the cause an explosion. top with a two inch ground stopper T, that acts as a safety-valve when the pressure becomes too great. (When a sheet-iron retort is used, the top is luted on with plaster of Paris; it dries hard in a few moments, and is then ready for making the gas.) P is a metal pipe, terminating in a brass nipple for connection with rubber pipe A from the wash bottle W. The wash bottle has two metal pipes soldered in its cover; the longer one is to be connected with the retort, and through it the newly made gas passes through the water to wash out the particles that are carried over with it, and which, if left in the gas, would be driven into the jet and prevent the flow of gases. shorter tube conveys the gas from the upper part of the bottle through the rubber pipe B and stop cock C into the bag. It is better, if possible, to place the bag on a table or some place higher than the wash bottle, so as to avoid as much as possible any water being carried over by the rapid flow of gas, as any dampness in connection with the oxygen gas soon rots the bag. Chlorine gas is also very injurious to the bag, and to prevent its being carried over with the oxygen, add a few crystals of common washing soda (sal soda) to the water in the wash bottle.

PRECAUTIONS.—Accidents have happened in making oxygen, but they are invariably due to gross carelessness. No one who has not some knowledge of chemistry, should undertake to make gases without reading and fully understanding the steps herein described. The chlorate of potash and manganese should be examined for small bits of straw, sticks, or other foreign substances. Practically the only danger is lest soot or charcoal be mixed with the samples.

Never allow bystanders to take a part in making the gas. have known an explosion caused by a curious spectator who pinched the rubber tube between the wash bottle and the bag while the gas was being rapidly made, the sudden check in the flow of gas forced water back into the retort. If by any accident the retort should fall off the fire, do not replace until certain that the neck of the retort and pipes are clean, as the charge may choke the outlets and cause an explosion. In making oxygen gas, many persons put their iron or copper retorts away with the spent charge left in, either in a dry state or wet. This slowly destroys the metal. The retort should, when somewhat cool, be half filled with water (either cold or warm), which will dissolve the charge; wash this out until entirely cleaned. Now place the retort upon the gas or fire until all dampness has dried out, and it can then be put away until again required. This will make the retort last double the time. The charge should not in any case be knocked out with an iron rod.

Should you wish to know if a retort be unfit for further use, you can do so by means of a small piece of iron or the back blade of a pocket knife. By knocking (when empty) you may ascertain by the sound what thickness it is. Never risk a faulty retort.

RECAPITULATION OF PROCESS. 1.—Weigh out 32 ounces chlorate potash, and 8 ounces black oxide of manganese; mix them, and heat a small amount in an iron spoon. If they are pure, they will melt and dry up, leaving a gray residue; if impure, they will not melt, but flash up with a slight explosion, leaving a whitish mass, with red spots over the surface; in the latter case they are dangerous.

2.—See that the retort is perfectly clean and dry, then pour in the chemicals. If the copper retort is employed, fit in the ground stopper; do the same with sheet steel retort, and fasten at suitable height on the retort stand.

3.-Fill the wash bottle half full of water containing a lump of washing soda the size of a small hickory nut.

4.—Open the stop cock of the bag wide, remove all weight from the top, and place it above the level of the wash bottle.

5.—Blow through all the pipes to see that they are free from obstruction.

6.—Light the lamp and place it under the retort, and at the same time connect P with the long tube of the wash bottle. In ten to twenty minutes (depending on the heat), bubbles of gas will come through the water in the wash bottle; when the air is expelled, and not sooner, connect the short tube of the wash bottle with the

7.—If the gas begins to come over violently so as to throw the water into the pipes, lessen the heat by turning down the flame, or drawing the lamp a little away from the retort.

8.—Should the flow of gas stop before the bag is full, which is shown by the water in the wash bottle ceasing to bubble, do not disturb it; it will soon begin again and go on rapidly till the bag is filled. If the lamp has been removed, replace it, or increase the heat a little.

9.—When the bag is full, or no more gas passes over, first disconnect the retort from the wash bottle, then close the stop cock of the bag, and disconnect it from the wash bottle, and proceed to clean the retort.

The Retort complete consists of two parts, a "Head" and a Retort "Body" The Head is indestructible, and lists at $3.00. The Body is of sheet copper, heavy, can be used fifty times; then a new body should be purchased, price $5.00, list.

Two bags of this capacity are necessary to hold enough Oxygen for a run of two hours.

One and one-half packages of chemicals are necessary to fill the bags.

DIRECTIONS FOR USE OF COMPRESSED OXYGEN OUTFIT.

Put eight ounces of water in which has been dissolved a teaspoonful of Sal Soda into the wash bottle.

Put chemicals into retort, shaking down well

Connect as shown in cut.

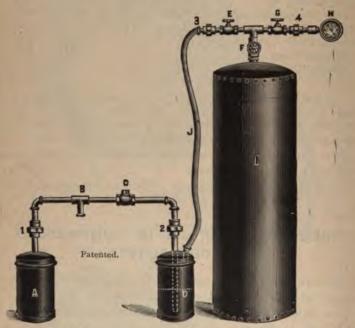

Fill both bags at once.

Make gas with th: bands on the bags.

Close stop-cocks on bags when gas ceases making. Disconnect wash bottle. You are now ready to connect the gas bags to the lantern if hydrogen or house gas is to be used from another bag, or to the T tube if the Ether Saturator is to be used. It will work equally well with either.

With these two articles, the "Saturator" and the "Compressed Oxygen Outfit," the exhibitor is in shape to give a first-class entertainment, with a light inferior to none, and is entirely independent of the large business centers for his supply of gas.

THE McINTOSH-ARNOLD SELF-CONDENS-ING OXYGEN RETORT & CYLINDER.

L. No. 139, PRICE.....$100.00

DESCRIPTION.

Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4 are Unions, A retort, B Safety Blow-Out, C Check Valve, D Wash Bottle, E, F, G Globe Valves, H Gauge, I cylinder, J Flexible High Pressure Tubing. In this outfit we present to the exhibitor the triumph of mechanical ingenuity and skill; no pumping, no carrying up and down stairs of heavy weights for your gas bags; no fear that some thoughtless or mischievous boy can pierce the bag with his knife blade; does all the work itself, and all the gas left over at the close of an entertainment is saved for the next exhibition; saves 50 per cent of the cost in the manufacture of oxygen over that purchased already compressed.

DIRECTIONS FOR THE MANUFACTURE OF OXYGEN WITH THIS APPARATUS.

Supposing the apparatus to be already connected up, as depicted in cut; disconnect Unions Nos. 2 and 1; fill the wash bottle D half full of water, into which has been placed a couple of teaspoonfuls of bicarbonate of soda; this is to neutralize the acidulation obtained in the generation of oxygen. Place in retort A two packages, or, in quantity, three pounds of potassium chlorate, and one pound black binoxide of manganese, pouring same through a large tin funnel, into the pipe at Union 1. down Unions Nos. 1 and 2 again tightly; no undue exertion is needed; only have them fit firmly and closely onto the washers, so that no leakage is possible. Allow Union No. 3 to be slightly open; apply heat to A; this you can do by means of an ordinary cook stove, an ordinary heating stove, where it is possible to get the retort into the stove onto the fire, or it can be made over an ordinary gasoline stove, or, in fact, in the open air, by building a fire under it. An ordinary soap or cracker box smashed to pieces will afford heat enough for the generation of oxygen. Having applied heat for two or three minutes, until you can hear a bubbling in the wash bottle, which, at the beginning, indicates that the hot air is passing over and out, escaping at Union 3; having waited for not more than two or three minutes, close Union 3 tightly; open the valves E, F, G, which allows the gas to not only enter the cylinder, but at the same time it presses on the gauge; you do not need great heat; oxygen is of a better quality when made slowly than rapidly. It is not necessary to get the retort to a red heat, although a dull red is not objectionable. From these two packages, or from the exact quantity above given, 65 pounds pressure should be indicated on the gauge. the gas has ceased making, which is indicated by the cessation of the bubbling in the wash bottle, and also by the indicating needle of the gauge remaining stationary, then close globe valve F tightly, disconnect Union No. 1, and, while the retort is still warm, wash it out thoroughly with water until it is perfectly clean, dry it thoroughly, place in it one package of 28 oz. of potassium chlorate, and 8 oz. of black binoxide of manganese. Fasten tightly Union No. 1, again loosening slightly union No. 3. Apply heat; allow the hot air to escape as before.

Close Union 3 tightly and open up globe valves E and G (not F), and allow the gas to pass through against the gauge until the pressure on the gauge exceeds that already in the cylinder from the first generating. As soon as the outside pressure as indicated on the gauge, exceeds that already in the cylinder, open up globe valve F, and allow the gas to enter the cylinder. This second charging should give you 100 pounds pressure to the square inch, this being the amount to which we recommend that this apparatus should be charged. With this amount of pressure, you have in this sized cylinder (12 inches in diameter by 42 inches in height), 181/3 cubic feet, nearly enough for four solid hours of work; in fact enough for two complete lectures. although it is advisable to always make gas before each entertainment, so that you can guard against any accident by leakage or otherwise. Gas having ceased to come over, close valve F tight; disconnect the apparatus at unions I, 2 and 3, and at F unscrew the cross-piece from the top valve F, and into valve F, then you screw the plug cap with washer so that no leakage can occur, supposing some idle hands carelessly tamper with the globe valve F. When about to use the cylinder with the valve F still closed, unscrew the plug-cap, and screw firmly into its place with a washer underneath, the double needle valve; then open up the globe-valve F, and the gas goes onto the main spindle of the needle-valve, which you open widely; this lets the gas go onto the small needle or wheel-valve, as it is sometimes called. With this smaller needle-valve you effect the adjustment of the gases. Having adjusted it properly you can leave this small needle-valve adjusted, just as it is, and closing the main spindle the pressure is shut off, and yet the equilibrium of gas necessary for perfect light is established, and is in good shape and order for the entertainment; when you commence your entertainment, all that is necessary is to open up the main spindle of needle-valve. The Safety Blow-Out B is a safeguard against any explosion that could possibly occur. It is provided with a thin metallic disc that will blow out or burst at a pressure of 200 pounds to the square inch. It is well from time to time to examine this blow-out disc and see that the metal is not cor-Should it show evidences of roughness or corrosion, put in a new plate. This is an efficient safeguard, and no dangerous Another safeguard is the Check-Valve C. accident can occur. which, should one carelessly open up the globe-valve F before the outside pressure had exceeded that already left in the cylinder at the close of the last entertainment, or of the first generation of gas, would prevent the driving of the water back into the retort. I is a piece of flexible tubing, or as it is sometimes called, high-pressure steam hose, and being flexible enables the wash-bottle and retort to be used at any angle, so that any style of stove or heating apparatus can be used for generating gas. The washers furnished with this outfit are Asbestos; ordinary sole-leather washers, however, can be used just as well, the only precaution being that they must be kept soft and pliable by soaking them in warm water and keeping them in oil when not in use. A careful attention to these details which have been given at length in order that the novice may have every direction for his guidance, regard being paid to closing unions tightly, and that the washers should always be soft and pliable, and a good grade of potassium, preferably the French chlorate: that the chemicals are free from impurities, that no straw, bit of paper, or chip, or piece of string be mixed with them, will insure a safe and easy method of generating oxygen to high pressure, which can only be appreciated by those who have used it. With this outfit is furnished a large wrench for the tightening up of the large burrs of the various unions, a long poker for breaking up the slag and debris in cleaning out the retort, a funnel for pouring the chemicals into the retort, plug-cap for safeguard against the escape of gas, and a number of extra washers, and also a number of metallic discs to be used in the safety blow-out.

DIRECTIONS HOW TO MAKE HYDROGEN GAS.

Hydrogen being one of the constituents of water, is produced therefrom by the decomposing action of zinc and sulphuric acid. Make one gallon of a solution of one part of strong sulphuric acid to seven parts of water. As this combination generates considerable heat, it should be prepared in an earthen vessel, and long enough before it is required for use to permit of its cooling; then pour the There is attached to the stopper dilute acid into the generator H. an open basket, in which is placed 1½ pounds of scrap zinc. merse the basket in the dilute acid, and at the same instant quickly press the cork into the neck of the generator; the action will soon commence, as shown by the bubbling in the wash bottle. The action should be allowed to proceed for a few moments, so as to be sure that all air has been expelled; then make the connection with the bag, seeing that the key is turned so as to permit the gas to flow. accompanying cut will show the arrangement of the apparatus.

The Ether Saturator is coming into very general use as a substitute for hydrogen.

PRECAUTIONS IN MAKING HYDROGEN.—Be careful to see that all the tubes are open; this is ascertained by blowing through them. Let the wash bottle be filled about half full of water. Expel all air from the bag before commencing to fill it, by rolling it up from the small end. When filled, turn off the stop cock and separate the connections. After being used, all gas should be expelled from the hydrogen bag, as the bag would be injured by allowing it to remain.

GAS BAGS.

We furnish a very superior quality of gas bag; the material consists of two layers of rubber and two of canvas, with all the edges vulcanized together, and bound in a firm and substantial manner to give them extra strength. A deep gusset greatly increases the capacity without adding materially to its weight or bulk when packed. The stop cock is of our own manufacture, and especially adapted for use with this bag. It is very accurately fitted, so that no leakage of gas can occur. A special feature is a separate brass collar, permanently fastened in the opening of the bag, into which the stop cock fits, and from which it can be removed in a moment to repair fittings or to clear out any dirt that may accidentally enter the bag.

It is better to have a large size bag, because some gas is needed in preliminary adjustment, and as there will always be a slight variation in amount used in an entertainment, and for 1½ hours work a bag 30 x 40 x 30 inches is most desirable. Only the best bags are worth having, and such will last for years if the gas is properly washed and all taps and metal fittings are cleaned and oiled occasionally. All bags we furnish are tested with a much greater weight than it is ever necessary to use in working either a single or dissolving Stereopticon.

When bags are used for both gases, care should be observed to keep each bag for its particular gas, as explosions have been caused by using the oxygen bag for hydrogen, and vice versa. To obviate mistakes of this kind, it is well to have some distinguishing feature about the bags, so that even in the dark they can be readily identified.

PRESSURE BOARDS.

L. No. 143, Price...... 5 00

These Pressure Boards are hinged together in the form of a wedge shaped box, with handle and lock, in which the gas bag is carried. It is shown closed and locked, ready for transportation. The dotted lines show the position of the cover when the bag is filled with gas. The cross-bar prevents the weight from rolling off, and keeps it on the forward part of the bag; this position distributes the pressure more evenly than if placed in the centre of the cover. The bag can be carried without folding or creasing, and is protected from splinters and roughness of floors when in use. This form of pressure board adds considerably to the durability of the gas bag.

A single pressure board may be employed if preferred; it can be made by any carpenter. It should be not less than 32 x 42 inches, perfectly smooth on the surface next the bag. On the lower edge of its upper surface is fastened a batten to hold two strap hinges; the free ends of these hinges are screwed to the floor. Six inches back of the upper edge is another batten to hold the weight in place.

These battens should be fastened on with screws, which must not project through the board, otherwise they will wear holes in the bag. To prevent the bag from slipping out from under the pressure board when the weight is adjusted, two leather straps may be fastened upon the upper edge of the board, and be brought down across the bellows end of the bag, and fastened to the floor. The latter must be free from sand, nails or splinters, as these are liable to injure the bag. A sharp tack, carelessly left under it, has been known to puncture it, under great pressure.

THE SCREEN.

The white surface that receives the projected picture is called the It may be a white finished wall, or a white cloth properly The back of a wall map, if clean and white, may be used. Whatever form of screen is selected must be perfectly smooth, and its surface must be parallel with the front of the objective. of any size, but for convenience should be not more than a foot or two larger in diameter than the largest size disk to be employed. Exhibitors who wish to use both large and small halls find it convenient to carry two screens of different sizes. Those we manufacture are of the best quality of heavy bleached cotton; they have a firm border of thick, non-elastic webbing, stitched entirely around the edge, with brass rings about one inch in diameter at intervals of two feet. Screw eyes of sufficient size to hold the guy ropes are fastened in the floor and ceiling, and the screen is drawn smooth and free from Very careful adjustment is required when the microscope The four corners of the screen must be attachment is employed. equi-distant from the objective. A convenient method of ascertaining a correct position is to tie a long cord to the objective, and measure the distance to each corner of the screen.

If the center of the screen is on a higher level than the lantern, the front of the latter must be elevated until the disk of light will fall on the center of the screen. Sometimes it is necessary to tilt the upper part of the screen forward to make its center parallel with the Lantern Lens.

DIRECTIONS FOR PUTTING UP SCREENS.

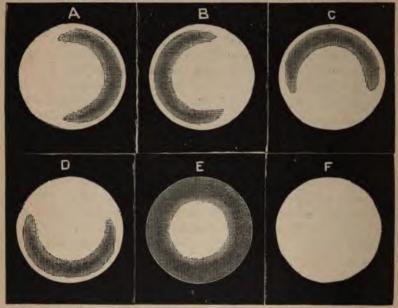

All of our screens are provided with two very strong rings, capable of sustaining enormous strain, at each corner. A few directions as to the easy way of hanging a large screen will not come amiss to the amateur; 3 ropes are necessary for hanging a screen in this manner: purchase 200 feet of No. 7 or 8 sash weight cord, which, if an A No. 1 quality, is capable of standing a tensile strain of 600 pounds. One rope you never cut; the other one you cut in half; this gives you three pieces, one 100 feet long and two 50 feet long. Lay your screen on the floor under the place where you wish to hang it. At one side of the hall place a strong screw eye in the floor or base boards, of one-fourth inch wire at least; to this ring fasten one end of the 100 foot rope and also one end of one of the 50 foot ropes; then carrying the other ends of both of these pieces of rope in your hands or tied round your waist, ascend your step-ladder and place another strong screw eye in the wall, rafter, or pillar, at the desired height; through this ring pass both ends of the ropes; descend your ladder and fasten the other end of the short piece to one of the rings in the corner of the screen; the end of the 100 foot rope you do not make fast at all, but carry or thread it, as we might say, through all of the rings on the top of the screen. Then having made fast one end of the remaining 50 foot rope to one of the corner rings, you ascend your step-ladder on the opposite side of the hall or room, and having placed your screw eye in the wall there, carry the ropes through and descend your ladder, place a screw eye in the floor or base board on that side of the room. You have now finished climbing, and yet your screen remains on the floor. Now, if you pull up tightly, taking up all of the slack in the 100 foot piece of rope, it will stretch across the auditorium like a wire; put on all the strength you have, and if necessary call some one to help you and make it fast. Now, by tightening the two short ropes on either side, you spread out the screen on the rope, and can slide it back and forth into any desired position; then having drawn the short ropes tightly, make them fast in the same screw eyes to which are attached the ends of the long rope. Now, all that is necessary is to make fast to the floor the lower corners of screen, having them either on a line with the other screw eyes, or if the stereopticon is in the gallery pointing down, carry the lower margin of screen slightly forward, so that all the corners of the screen are equidistant from the lantern; on the other hand, should the lantern be on the floor and pointing a little above the level, carry the lower margin of the screen slightly backward, and fasten withsmall screw eyes in the floor. The point to be borne in mind, is that for perfect definition on the screen, the four corners must be equi-distant from the lantern. One strong feature about this method of raising the screen, is that the screw eyes, being of triffing value, can be left in the wall to be used at the next entertainment; all you have to do is to loosen your ropes and you can pull them right out, and thus save the bother and trouble of climbing up again.

HOW TO CENTER AND FOCUS THE LIGHT.

When the lime begins to give out a brilliant white light move it to or from the condenser (when the mechanical jet is the one used, this is done by rod C) until the disk of light on the screen is evenly illuminated, as in Fig. F. Reference to the following cuts will enable the operator to locate the light to produce a perfect disk.

When the disk resembles Fig. A, the light must be moved to the left; Fig. B, it must be moved to the right; Fig. C, the light must be lowered; Fig. D, it must be raised. If the disk is surrounded by a dark blue border, as in E, the light is too near the condenser, and must be moved back; if, on the contrary, this ring is of an orange hue, the light is too far from the condenser, and must be moved forward.

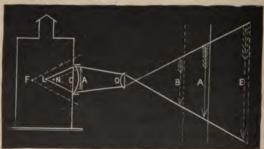

Fig. G.

In this illustration the correct location of the light is shown at L; all the rays fall within the area of the condenser. F represents the light located too far from the condenser, so that a portion of the rays pass outside of it and are lost; when the light is too near, as at N, the rays do not fully illuminate the image.

THE SIZE OF DISK.—The size of the illuminated circle on the screen, with a given lens, depends upon its distance from the screen. In Fig. G the arrow A is shown of a certain size on the screen, its length is equal to the diameter of the cone of light at that point. If the screen be moved nearer, as at B, the cone of light is intercepted at a point where the diameter is less, therefore the image will be smaller. If the screen be removed to E, where the rays have widely diverged, the image will be correspondingly enlarged. The rays of light nearer the lens being more condensed, a brighter image will be shown at B than at E, where they are diffused over a larger surface. The shorter the distance between the lens and the screen, the smaller and brighter the image; the greater the distance between the lens and the screen the larger and less bright the image. The distance can be considerably varied without impairing the image on the screen when sunlight, the electric light, or the lime-light are employed, but with an oil light it is practically impossible to produce a satisfactory picture of more than ten feet in diameter.

Inversion of Image.—It is necessary to invert the slides as they are placed in the focus of the Lantern Lens for a reason which will be apparent on examination of Fig. G. Since the rays of light come to a focus, and cross at a certain distance from a lens, it follows that the rays from the upper part of the object, near the condenser, will be thrown on the lower margin of the screen, and vice versa, giving an inverted image of the object. To make this image appear right side up to the audience, the slide must be wrong side up in the lantern.

How to Focus IMAGE ON Screen.—The milled head screw on the Stereopticon Lens is to be turned until the image comes out distinct and sharply defined upon the screen. If this screw is turned as much as possible without bringing out the image clearly, it wil be necessary to lengthen or shorten the sliding tube which holds the lens. A little practice will enable the operator to adjust the focus instantly.

To Show the Slides.—As photographic transparencies from different manufacturers vary somewhat in size, the Slide Carriers furnished with the McIntosh Lanterns are adjustable for different sizes. The transparencies show to better advantage when they are correctly placed before the condenser. Each new lot should be examined and marked by a slip of paper pasted across one corner, to indicate which is the front side.

How to Manage the Sunlight Lamp.—Use only the best grade of coal oil, not less than 150° test. Elaine is preferable when it can be obtained. Twelve fluid ounces of oil is sufficient for a two hours exhibition, and no more should be poured into the lamp, as it is necessary to leave about half an inch unfilled, so that the lantern front may be raised without spilling the oil. Place the lamp in the lantern, take off the reflector and raise the hinged glass to light the wicks. The wicks must be evenly trimmed, and turned very low when first lighted; in a second or two very slowly raise each wick a little at a time, waiting not less than five minutes before the full effect is obtained. The light must not be turned so high as to smoke. When a full and perfectly white flame is produced, lower the hinged glass, replace the reflector and close the lantern door.

HOW TO MANAGE AN EXHIBITION.

The beginner should be provided with a list of all the apparatus and materials needed for an exhibition, and before starting out should see that nothing is omitted, otherwise he is liable to find something missing at the last moment which will interfere with his arrangements.

To Locate the Lantern.—When the distance at which the lantern will cover a certain sized screen is known, then the whole apparatus may be placed without any hesitation; but if this is not known, or a different size objective is used, as is often necessary to accommodate the size of the hall, then the apparatus should be set up temporarily, and a trial made to see if the distance be correct. With many of the objectives used the size of the picture thrown will be just half the distance between the lantern and the screen, i. e., if the lantern be twenty feet away, the size of the picture will be ten feet. These objectives answer well for an illumination of from twelve to fifteen feet, but when it is required larger than this, as is often the case with the oxy-hydrogen light, then a larger objective should be used.

Location of Gas-bag.—It should be located as near as possible to the lantern, taking care that it is placed so that the hose conveying the gas from the bag cannot be trodden upon. When the oxyhydrogen light is used two bags will be needed. They may be placed between pressure-boards, one above the other, or they may be placed side by side, with a single board on each, while a narrower board reaches across both and receives the weights. Whichever arrangement is adopted, the weights should be so placed as to give an equal pressure on each bag. It is not necessary to carry heavy weights about for this purpose, as something may always be found—a keg or two of nails, a lot of window weights, kegs of white lead, or some rocks from a neighboring stone wall. Always use 300 pounds.

Attach the hose to the bags, and be careful that the proper connections are made with the jet. Never use the same hose for the lantern connections that has been used to connect retort with wash bottle in making gas. Always place each gas on the same side, i. ϵ ., the hydrogen on the left and the oxygen on the right.

Blow through all the pipes to make certain that they are not obstructed.

THE SCREEN should be located as near the central part of the end of the hall as possible. It must be drawn perfectly smooth and stand parallel with the end of the objective. When placed higher than the lantern, it may be tilted forward a little at the top, while the lantern is raised by placing a block under the front legs to make the front lens of the objective parallel with the surface of the screen. If this is not done it will be impossible to illuminate all portions of the picture evenly at the same time. If it becomes necessary to place the lantern behind the screen, the latter must be thoroughly wet to make it transparent.

THE SATURATOR should not be connected with the lantern until ready to light up. It may, however, be filled by daylight (the metal caps screwed on VV), and placed beside the lantern ready to connect.

THE LENSES must be clean. If a damp fog appears when the lantern is first lighted, it must be allowed gradually to disappear, before anything can be done. If it does not disappear in two or three seconds the glass is not clean, although it may appear to be so to the eye. Avoid touching the polished surface with the fingers; they will leave a mark upon it. They must be cleaned with a little alcohol applied with cotton wool.

WHEN READY TO COMMENCE, darken the room as completely as possible; see that all keys are closed; connect the Saturator, draw the jet back from the condenser; insert the lime in its holder; place the weights on the pressure boards, and start the light as previously described. When the lime begins to give forth a brilliant glow, move the jet nearer the condenser, and focus the light on the screen.

ARRANGEMENT OF SLIDES.—The slides should be carefully arranged so that all will be the same way up, with the fronts all in the same direction. They must also be in the exact order described in the lecture. Carelessness in this particular often leads to ridiculous results.

Signals.—The lecturer and operator usually settle upon some signal for changing the views. The reading lamp we furnish is provided with a small bell, also a colored light, which is covered and uncovered by a slide; either signal can be selected. Especial attention is called to the lecturers' Electric Signal, see page 56.

HOW TO MAKE LANTERN SLIDES.

These, probably the most beautiful and most extensively useful of all photographic productions may be produced either by copying, in a suitable camera, or by super-position. The former is the method generally adopted by those who make them commercially, or where they are to be reduced from larger negatives; the latter is almost universally employed by those who make them only for their own use.

As those who possess good lanterns are generally photographers, and make negatives of a size and quality suitable for printing by super-position, and as by that method slides of the highest quality can be made with certainty and simplicity, we append the following brief synopsis of the operation:

Good pictures may be made on any slow, clean-working, gelatinobromide plate, but it is better to use the gelatino-albumen, or gelatino-chloride, specially prepared by various makers for the purpose, either of the English standard 31/4 inches square, or as is more generally used in America 4 x 3 1/4.

The following solutions are required, and as they will keep indefinitely they may be made in large quantities:

No. 1.—Oxalate Solution.

| Sulphite of soda | 1 oz. |
|---|--------|
| Citric acid | 60 gr |
| Water | 32 oz. |
| Dissolve, and add neutral oxalate of potash | 8 oz. |

After solution, immerse a strip of litmus paper, and if it remains blue add a solution of citric acid (100 grs. to the ounce), a few drops at a time, until alkalinity is just removed and the paper changes faintly red; then add 200 grains of citric acid and water, if needed, to make the bulk measure 40 fluid ounces, filter, and it is ready.

No. 2.—IRON SOLUTION.

| Water 32 Dissolve, filter and add sulphuric acid 40 | oz. oz. drops |
|---|---------------------|
| No. 3.—FIXING SOLUTION. Hyposulphite of soda | oz. oz. |
| No. 4.—CLEARING SOLUTION. | |

 Cyanide of potassium (pure)
 60 gr.

 Water
 6 oz.
 Measure off 1 oz. of the solution, and to the remainder add tincture of iodine until a slight color remains, showing the solution to be saturated; then add the 1 oz. reserved, and it will at once be cleared. Its use will be explained further on.

No. 5.—Bromide Solution.

The method of operation is as follows: In a room lighted only by a ruby or orange light, place the negative in the printing frame, the prepared plate on the negative just as the paper is placed in ordinary printing, but using several folds of canton flannel or other soft material between the plate and the back of the frame to secure close contact between the two glasses without risk of breakage. Expose to a gas flame or oil lamp for from ten to twenty seconds, or more or less, depending on the size of flame and density of the negative, and proceed to develop in the ordinary way. Mix in a graduated measure in the following order:

 No. 1, Oxalate solution
 2½ ounces.

 No. 2, Iron solution
 ½ ounce.

 No. 5, Bromide solution
 ½ drachm.

And having placed the plate in a suitable tray, pour the solution over it and watch for the result.

With a properly exposed plate, the image should begin to show in from 15 to 18 seconds, and be allowed to continue until what constitutes the bright light shows full of detail, then wash off the developer and fix in the hypo. solution, No. 3, letting it remain a few minutes after all the unreduced bromide is apparently dissolved; next, wash a few minutes, then immerse from three to five minutes in the alum bath, made by dissolving two ounces of powdered alum in thirty ounces of water. After another good wash, and while the water is running over the plate, pass a broad camel-hair brush over the surface, after which set it up to dry.

The clearing solution, No. 4, is used, when from slight over-exposure to the light, or too prolonged development, or from lack of proper density in the negative, the parts of the positive that should show clear glass are slightly tinted. A careful application of it with a camel-hair brush will remove it.

The tone of the transparencies can be varied somewhat by varying the length of exposure and strength of developer. A short exposure and a strong developer made of

No. 1, Oxalate solution 2 oz.
No. 2, Iron solution 2 oz.
No. 3, Bromide solution 2 dr.

will give a rather cold tone; the same diluted to 8 ounces with water, giving a longer exposure, will give a warm, brown tone; while a mixture half new mixed and half old gives a rich tone. It is a safe proceeding, also, to immerse the exposed plate for a minute or so in an old developer, and to add new to that to bring up the image.

OUTFIT No. 1, Price $25.00, consists of

One Society Sciopticon, with one pair 41/2-inch condensing lenses, one short focus, achromatic objective or magnifying glass; a two-wick lamp with chimney, reflector, and slide carrier; in a neat packing case.

OUTFIT No. 2, Price $35.00, is made up of

One Argand Sciopticon, with one pair 4½-inch condensing lenses, one short focus achromatic objective or magnifying glass, one A No. 1 Argand Student Lamp and reflector, slide carrier; in a neat traveling case, with hinged door, lock and handle.

Without Student Lamp, allowing the purchaser to make use of his own Student Lamp......$30.00

OUTFIT No. 3, Price $40.00, consisting of
One McIntosh Sciopticon, with 4½-inc condensers, Achromatic Stereopticon Objective, Sun-Light Lamp, Slide Carrier and Stop, in neat packing case, with hinged lid, lock and handle.

OUTFIT No. 4, Price $100.00, includes

A McIntosh Sciopticon, with 4½-inch condensers, Achromatic Stereopticon Objective, Adjustable Jet for mixed gases, and the following accessories:—Ether Saturator No. 1, Tin Funnel, T Tube (Oxygen Divider), a 30x40 best quality canvas covered Rubber Gas Bag, Sheet Steel Retort, Retort Stand, Wash Bottle, Alcohol Lamp, one dozen Lime Cylinders, half-dozen packages of chemicals for Oxygen, 2 lbs. best Ether, 20 feet Rubber Tubing for connections, Screen 15x15, packing case with hinged lid, lock and handles.

The above outfit, with Sun-Light Lamp (extra).....$110.00

OUTFIT No. 5. Price, $125.00, consisting of

An Exhibitor's Stereopticon, with sliding front, 4½ inch Condensers, Achromatic Double Combination Stereopticon Lenses for different distances, Slide Carrier with Stop, Platina-tipped Jet for mixed gases, and the following accessories: Ether Saturator No. 1, Tin Funnel, Oxygen Divider (T Tube), 30 x 40, best quality canvas-covered Rubber Gas-bag, Sheet Steel Refort, Retort Stand, Wash-bottle, Alcohol Lamp, one dozen Lime Cylinders, half dozen packages of chemicals for Oxygen, three lbs. best Ether, 20 feet Rubber Tubing for connections, Screen 15x15, packing case, with hinged lid, lock and handle OUTFIT No. 6. Price, $125.00,

Is made up of the Chicago Model Sciopticon, with draw tube; one pair four and one-half inch Condensers, one Achromatic Double Combination Stere-opticon Lens for different distances, Slide Carrier with Stop, Platinatipped Jet for mixing gases, and the following accessories: Ether Saturator No. 1, Tin Funnel, Oxygen Divider, (T Tube) one 30 x 40 x 20 first quality canvas-covered Rubber Gas-bag, one Sheet Steel Retort, one Retort Stand, one Wash-bottle, one Alcohol Lamp, one dozen Lime Cylinders, one half-dozen packages of chemicals for Oxygen, 3 lbs. of ether, 20 feet of Rubber Tubing for connections, one Screen 15 x 15, one Telescope Canvas Traveling Case.

OUTFIT No. 7. Price, $145.00, consisting of

McIntosh Combination Stereopticon, with finest quality of Condensers, firstclass Achromatic Stereopticon Lens for short and long distance, Slide Carrier and Stop, our new Mechanical Jet Platina-tipped; removable front, for Solar Work, and same accessories as in Outfit No. 5.

DISSOLVING VIEW OUTFIT No. 8. Price $200.00.

One Chicago Model Stereopticon, with two pair four and one-half inch Condensers, one pair matched Achromatic Objectives. one pair Platinatipped Jets, one pair Slide Carriers, Stops, one Dissolver, one Saturator No. 2, one Tin Funnel, one T Tube, one 30 x 40 x 20 best quality canvas-covered Rubber Gas-bag, one Copper Retort, one Retort Stand, one Wash-bottle, one Alcohol Lamp, one dozen Lime Cylinders, one half-dozen packages of chemicals for oxygen, four pounds best Ether, 20 feet Rubber Tubing for connections, one Screen 20 x 20, one Telescoped Canvas Traveling Case.

DISSOLVING VIEW OUTFIT, No. 9. Price $220.00, consisting of

One pair Exhibitor's Stereopticons complete, with Condensers, Achromatic Stereopticon Objectives, Platina-tipped Jets, one pair of Slide Carriers, with Stops, Dissolver, Saturator No. 2, Tin Funnel, T Tube, 30 x 40 best quality canvas-covered Rubber Gas-bag, Copper Retort, Retort Stand, Wash-bottle, Alcohol Lamp, one dozen Lime Cylinders, half dozen packages of chemicals for Oxygen, 4 lbs. best Ether, 20 feet Rubber Tubing for connections, Screen 15 x 15, packing case with hinged lid, lock and handles, suitable for a stand when exhibiting.

DISSOLVING VIEW OUTFIT, No. 10. Price $250.00, includes a

McIntosh Bi-unial Stereopticon, with first quality Plano-convex Condensing Lenses, extra quality Achromatic Stereopticon Objectives, with rack work for focusing, Dissolver, one pair Slide Carriers and Stops, Mechanical Jets, Platina-tipped Saturator No. 2, and same accessories as in outfit No. 5.

DISSOLVING VIEW OUTFIT No. 11 Price $350.00.

One Royal Photo-Opticon, with first quality triple Plano-convex Condensing Systems, extra quality Achromatic Stereopticon Objective, one Dissolver, one pair Slide Carriers, one pair Slide Stops, one pair Mechanical Jets with mechanical lime movement, one Satugator No. 3, one Tin Funnel one T Tube, one 30 x 40 x 20 best quality canvas-covered Rubber Gasbag, one copper Retort, one Retort Stand, one Wash-bottle, one Alcohot Lamp, one dozen Lime Cylinders, one dozen packages of chemicals for Oxygen, 4 lbs. of Ether, 20 feet of Rubber Tubing, one Screen 20 x 20, one packing case with hinged lid, lock and handles.

DISSOLVING VIEW OUTFIT No. 12 consists of a

McIntosh Scenic Tri-Opticon, with 3 Plano-convex condensing Systems, 8 extra quality Achromatic Stereopticon Objectives, One Dissolver, with which eitner one, two or three lanterns may be used at the same time, 3 Slide Carriers, 3 Slide Stops, 3 Mechanical Jets, one Steel Cylinder for Oxygen, 12 inches in diameter by 48 inches long, one Steel Cylinder for Hydrogen, 12 inches in diameter by 48 inches long, both cylinders furnished with first-class Double Needle Valves, 10 feet Rubber Tubing for connections, one Screen 24x24, one Portable Extension Screen Frame, one Electric Signal and 4 dozen Limes, one packing case with hinged door, lock and handles. Price, $500.00.

DISSOLVING VIEW OUTFIT No. 13.

The Tri-Opticon, with 3 Triple Plano-convex Condensing Systems, 3 first quality ½-size Darlot Objectives, 3 Slide Carriers, 3 Slide Stops, 3 highest grade Mechanical Jets, and one Triple High Pressure Dissolving Key, 2 fifty-foot Sheet Steel Cylinders for Oxygen and Hydrogen, mounted with Double Needle Valves, with Improved Cylinder Key, 15 ft. Rubber Tubing, one 30-foot Screen, one 20-foot Screen and one 10-foot Screen, one Electric Signal, one Reading Lamp and best Reading Stand, one Portable Extension Screen Frame for 30-foot screen, 75 colored wood-mounted Slides. 200 plain or uncolored Slides and 3 Chromatropes. Price, $675,00.

DISSOLVING VIEW OUTFIT No. 14 comprises

The Royal Chicago, the finest Triple Stereopticon manufactured in the world, with 3 Triple Plano-convex Condensing Systems, 3 matched first quality one-half size Achromatic Darlot Objectives, 3 "Wide Angle" Objectives, 3 Slide Carriers, 3 Slide Stops, 3 highest grade Mechanical Jets and the Triple High Pressure Dissolving Key with h. p. connections, 2 60-foot Cylinders, sheet steel, with Double Needle Valves for Oxygen and Hydrogen, with Improved Cylinder Key, 15 feet Rubber Hose, 3 Screens, one 10, one 20 and one 30 feet square, one Lecturer's Electric Signal, one Lecturer's Reading Lamp and best Reading Stand, one Portable Extension Screen Frame for a 30-foot Screen, 150 colored wood-mounted Slides, 250 uncolored, being a sufficient number for for lectures. Price of complete outfit, as above enumerated, $800.00.

THE PORTABLE LIME-LIGHT AND LANTERN.

A point upon a piece of unslacked lime, brought to a dazling incandescence by the sharply driven jet of the oxy-hydrogen flame, has proved itself to be by far the most satisfactory light for lantern use. All oil lights are greatly deficient in illuminating power, and the light is spread over so large a space that the lenses cannot properly gather the rays together.

To maintain a good lime-light, whatever be the sources of gas supply, an operator must have some native skill, a good deal of experience, and must give constant attention to his work. The drawbacks to the use of the lime-light are the time and cumbrous machinery needed to manufacture and store the gases; or if cylinders are used, the cost of the gases, the expense of transportation, and the liability of not having cylinders when needed at all times and in all sorts of places. For the hydrocarbon element, the vapor of gasoline has been used, as from an ordinary gasoline stove. Let any one study an ordinary gasoline stove and he will understand how the gas is obtained from the There is a generating tube 3/4 of an inch in diameter and some five or six inches in height, which is so heated that at the top the temperature is above the boiling or gas-producing point of gasoline; while the base of the tube is kept below that point. From the top of the tube, therefore, gas can be drawn off in an ample and steady supply, the liquid rising to the more heated part and vaporizing as required. The needed pressure is obtained by pumping into a closed supply tank, by hand bulb, an air pressure which shall be always greater than can be used at the jet of the lime-light. The only limiting condition is, that the channel leading the gas to the mixing chamber must be kept heated above the boiling point of gasoline, and for this the apparatus amply provides.

The oxygen gas is obtained from ordinary chlorate of potash, to which is added, as usual, a portion of binoxide of manganese, that oxygen gas may come off steadily and at a lower temperature. The principle involved in this apparatus is the heating of small portions of the chemicals as the operator sees his need of gas. The gas as made is carried into a small equalizing or regulating bag, so that the supply is constant and is maintained at a steady pressure.

In order that only a portion of the chemicals may be heated at once, the retort is made of poor heat-conducting material—tin; it is two inches in diameter and twenty-six inches in length. The oxygen regulating bag is constructed upon a new principle. It is a strong rubber-cloth bag, cylindrical in form, two feet in length and eleven inches in diameter when filled. It holds about ten minutes' supply of gas.

The equalizing pressure is obtained by a dozen or more strong rubber bands, which close the bag and tend to keep it As the bag fills and the outward pressure surface becomes greater, the tension of the stretching rubber bands increases in about the same ratio. It is light, occupies when empty but small space, and is a great relief over anything operated by weights. In construction this gas-making apparatus is so arranged that it becomes the framework of the lantern. When the focus is once adjusted it is never afterward disturbed. save to slide the lenses back and forth for the varying distances of the screen. The wash bottle and the bag can be packed in a very small compass, and the entire outfit can easily be carried The expense of operating, both in time and in one hand. money, is very small. The gasoline costs hardly more than one cent an evening, and takes no more time than it does to fill an ordinary oil lamp. The cost of the oxygen varies with the price of chemicals, some two pounds and a half being used. is ever wasted. Ten minutes is all the time required from the unstrapping of the packing case to the lighting of the jet. cleaning up and recharging can be done at any time, and will take fifteen or twenty minutes. The question of safety is one of prime importance for an instrument used in public halls and private parlors. The danger from gasoline is due to carelessness in filling or in cleaning, the cocks not fully turned off. use of the air pressure avoids both these causes of accidents. The tank is very strong and air-tight, and holds only about 16 ounces at the most. There is only a cubic inch or so of gas at any time, and absolutely no chance of an explosive mixture. In the oxygen manufacture the only point of activity at any one time is an inch in length of the two-inch tin retort.

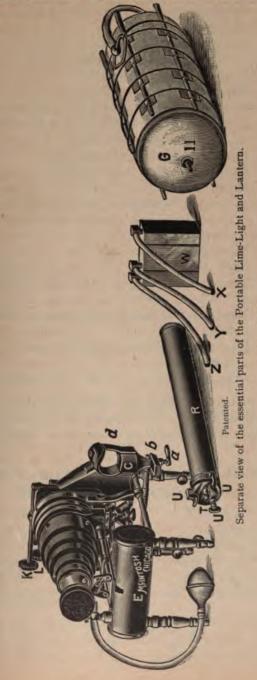

These, then, are the characteristics of the Portable Lime-Light apparatus. It is safer from serious accidents than any other form of the oxy-hydro-carbon jet yet devised. The mixing of the gases and the issuance from the nipple, and the pressure obtained, differ in no essential from the results secured by the best apparatus now in use. It is economical both as to time and running expense. If packed up properly it is ready to be taken in the hand at any time and set up for use in any place without a moment's warning.

DIRECTIONS FOR MANAGING THE PORTABLE LIME-LIGHT AND LANTERN.

- 1. Fill Gasoline Tank "E" with 16 ounces high-grade gasoline, not less than 80° flash test. To fill "E," you unscrew "F F" ("F" screws into "F F") entirely, and use a small funnel; 16 ounces fills "E" about three-quarters full. Replace "F F," screwing it down firmly, and if a little hard soap be smeared over the faces of the union, a perfectly gas-tight joint will be made.
- 2. Loosen "F" and pump in a pressure with hand bulb pump "A" by squeezing it firmly half a dozen times; then close "F."

From time to time during the evening pump in a pressure.

- 3. Charge retort "R" with a single package of chemicals, each package containing 32 ounces of potassium chlorate and 8 ounces manganese binoxide, thoroughy mixed.
- 4. Fill Wash Bottle "W" through "X" with 4 ounces water in which one-half teaspoonful of caustic soda or potash, or common "sal soda," has been dissolved. This alkali purifies the oxygen, takes up the chlorine and renders the oxygen sweet and almost pure enough to breathe.
- 5. Connect "T" to "X" with a short piece of 1/4-inch rubber hose.
- 6. Connect "Y" to "G" "I l" with a short piece of ¼-inch rubber hose.
- 7. Connect "Z" to "V" with a short piece of ¼-inch rubber hose.
- 8. Connect "1" to "B" with a short piece of 1/4-inch rubber hose.
- 9. Open valves "J" and "a" and allow "b," or generator cup, to be filled with liquid gasoline; then close "J" and light at "b." As soon as gasoline is burned out of "b" open "J" and light at "c;" this should now burn like an ordinary gasoline stove, and furnishes heat not only for generating oxygen, but also converts the liquid gasoline into gas, forcing it up through "i," where it is admitted to mixing chamber "Q" through valve "K."
 - 10. Place free end of retort in "d."
- 11. Put a lime in lime-holder in "G," about 1/8 of an inch from nipple.
- 12. As soon as oxygen is liberated freely (as will be indicated by the gas bubbling through "W," which can be plainly heard), open valve "K" a little and light; this admits gasoline gas, and this flame at first should be three or four inches long.
- 13. Open wide valve "L;" this admits a full supply of oxygen.
- 14. Now increase or diminish the supply of gasoline gas by valve "K" until the whitest light is obtained. If oxygen has been made too fast a hissing sound will be heard and both valves K and L must be manipulated back and forth until the whitest light is obtained without noise.
- 15. In 'closing or shutting off at the end of the entertainment, shut valve "L" first, then valve "K."

"CENTERING AND FOCUSING."

For "centering" and "focusing the light," read carefully page 106 of catalogue. Bear in mind that the jet or light is fixed, and that you must move the entire condensing cell "P" from right to left, or vice versa, by thumb screw "I," and upward or downward by thumb screw "H," and forward or Eackward, and when the best result is obtained fasten in place by thumb screw "S." To focus, move lens "O" backward or forward until best result is obtained.

CAUTIONS.

Always wash out retort within a few hours after it has been used. Drain and thoroughly dry before using again.

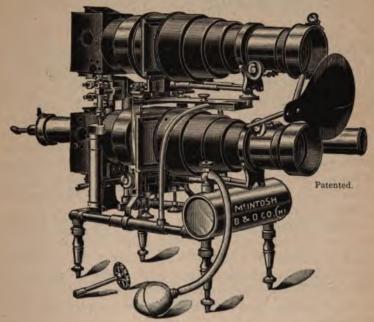

See that chemicals are free from pieces of paper or bits of wood or other impurities.

Use fresh alkaline water each time in the wash bottle.

In placing the retort "R" over the generator burner, do not heat more than the first $1\frac{1}{2}$ or 2 inches to start with, and do not push it along more than $\frac{1}{2}$ inch at a time; be careful about this, for the great fault of the novice is to make gas too fast. The gas-bag, when fully distended, is 11 inches in diameter, but in actual practical use should be maintained at about 8 or 9 inches in diameter. Keep in mind that you do not depend on the gas-bag for pressure, but look on it as an equalizer and regulator, like the governor on an engine, which it really is, since the pressure comes from generation of the gases in confinement. If gas is made too rapidly it will hiss on escaping at the jet and make a poor light, and will also escape at safety valve "B," and make an unpleasant smell; so be careful not to push through the retort too fast.

Retorts can be used from eight to twelve times, a safe average of ten times if carefully handled; they should then be thrown away and new ones used. Three retorts are furnished with each outfit. The head of the first retort is durable and is not to be thrown away, and can be used with the new retorts. When clamping the head down on a new retort it is well to use a little common bar soap or white lead between the flat surfaces, this effectually preventing leaking.

Mix chemicals thoroughly. In filling R see that chemicals are poured in evenly mixed, and that the larger crystals of potash do not accumulate in one place.

THE DISSOLVING PORTABLE LIME-LIGHT AND LANTERN.

The same general directions as given for the Single Portable Lime-Light and Lantern should govern the use of this lantern.

In the use of this instrument both Lanterns are burned bright all the time and the dissolving effect is accomplished by the shutter in front of the objectives. There are six valves between the flame boxes of the lanterns, the upper one regulating the "off flow" of gasoline in upper lantern, the lower one regulating the "off flow" of gasoline in lower lantern.

The upper two valves marked O and G establish the equilibrium of gases in the upper lantern, and the lower two marked O and G regulate the supply to the lower lantern.

ILLUSTRATIONS FOR PROJECTION.

T would be impossible to include within the limits of a catalogue a complete list of all the slides prepared for projection by the various manufacturers. We append lists which illustrate most of the subjects to which this art is applied, and can furnish in addition any special series offered by other houses, at their advertised price.

Photographs from Nature are the most popular because they are always beautiful and absolutely correct representations of places and objects. These are usually prepared on glass plates averaging $3\frac{1}{4} \times 4$ inches in size, protected by a thin glass cover and bound with black paper.

Fine Colored Photographic Views. Those included in our lists are made only by the best artists; they are carefully sealed, to protect the colors from the action of the atmosphere, and inclosed in wood frames 4 x 7 inches. We have not quoted the cheaper grades of colored views, which possess neither beauty nor merit, but only those which are artistic and pleasing to a refined taste.

Photographs of Engravings, Diagrams, and of Microscopic Objects can be furnished in greatest variety. They are mounted in the same style as the photographs from nature. Many diagrams can be made by the instructor by covering a suitable plate of glass with a thin film of varnish, paraffine, starch or soap and drawing the design with a sharp pointed instrument, through the film. The light can pass through only those lines where the film is removed.

Views of Statuary are each upon square glass slides $3\frac{1}{4} \times 4$ inches in size, with black background.

Chromatropes are 3 in. in diameter, in frame 4 in. wide by 7 or 12 inches long. They produce the effect of the kaleidoscope. The pictures are produced by brilliant designs painted upon two circular g'asses, and the glasses made to rotate in different directions. An endless variety of changes in the pattern are caused by turning the wheel, sometimes slowly, then quickly, backward and forward.

Dissolving Views consist of plain or colored slides and require two lanterns to produce the finest results. With these it is possible to change summer to winter, day to night, the exterior of a palace to an interior. The gliding of a boat, shadowy forms of spirits or the witches and goblins of the magician's cauldron can be shown with startling effect. These views may also be varied by the use of tinters, or discs of colored glass, placed over the stereopticon lens.

Microscopic Projection. Objects intended for this purpose are usually mounted upon glass slips 1 x 3 inches in size, covered by glass and sealed. Glass cells are used for liquids. Photo-Micrographs prepared similarly to lantern transparencies are also designed for lantern projection.

Professors and teachers can have colored or plain photographic copies made from their own designs—promptly, and in a superior manner. Designs should have sharp outlines, and be about twelve inches in diameter, done in India ink, free from colors. Any of the plain slides named in the following lists can be furnished, colored.

All Lecture Readings are Extra and Not Included with Price of Sets.

Descriptive Readings or "Lectures" of any series of slides not accompanied with a printed lecture, will be furnished by us in manuscript at 40c per slide, or in typewriting at 50c per slide. The large public library of this city enables us to obtain any information or "data" published upon almost any subject.

We find that people generally are very careless about putting their name on packages that they mail or express to us. We therefore request that all parcels sent us be marked with the name and post-office address of the sender.

In many instances several views of the same place will be found in different parts of the lists of slides, this means that while the subject is the same, that the views are taken from different positions or angles of vision and frequently by different artists. In ordering always give name of slide in full and its number and page in the catalogue.

Customers are requested to read carefully the following italicised paragraphs:

FIRST—While every Slide that we list can be furnished plain or colored, yet only those listed and priced as colored are carried in stock colored; all others are not carried in stock colored and will have to be colored after order is received. Such slides colored to order cannot be exchanged.

SECOND—There are two Lists of "Lecture Sets of Slides"—the "Foreign" that cannot, and "The Domestic that can be broken. Those that cannot be broken are few in number, are imported, and usually the view wanted, or one of similar character, can be found in the extensive "General List of Lantern Slides."

The Foreign Sets are listed on Index page IV.

Slides made to order must be paid for at the time the order is given. No deviation will be made from this rule.

In ordering Slides, always give: First, the edition of the Catalogue you order from; then the page, and then the number and name of Slide wanted.

See page 9 for mailing rates.

We deal, import, and manufacture lantern slides, our trade is considerable and we may be out of some of your order, therefore we deem it policy when ordering slides to give a second choice or else authorize us to make a close substitution, with the privilege of exchange of such substituted slides providing same are returned within ten days from date of invoice. We cannot at all times furnish on demand all the slides we catalogue, but any and every slide that we might happen to be out of when you order we can furnish in a reasonable time as we either own or control each and every negative from which they are made.

"LOST BIRD."

Philadelphia Times: The battle of wounded Knee was followed by a severe blizzard. On the fourth day, when this had abated, an old squaw called Yellow Bird, one of the friendly Indians, in wandering about the field discovered a baby girl. She was in the "postan," the board or basket on which the Indian women carry their babies, by the side of her dead mother. The soles of her little feet and the top of her head were frozen, otherwise, marvelous to relate, she was perfectly well.

Yellowbird took the child home and cared for her a day. Then she carried her to the hostile camp. General Colby, of Beatrice, Neb., heard of the baby and wanted to adopt her, so two ladies, one of them Mrs. Acy, persuaded Yellow Bird to go into the hostile camp and get the papoose. This she did.

The papers were then drawn up by which General Colby legally adopted the baby. He called her Marguerite Elizabeth, for the two ladies that accompanied Yellow Bird into the hostile camp, and brought her safely to him. The Indians called her "Jintka Lanuni," which means Lost Bird.

Mrs. Colby, who is in Washington, approves of calling her little girl her Indian name, and says that if we hear of her in the future, it will be as Jintka Lanuni when Jintka Lanuni was brought to the General she was clad in a red fiannel shirt and a blue fiannel dress. Now she owns eight white frocks, and a white cashmere coat and cap. She takes kindly to civilized life, and delights in her daily bath. She probably never enjoyed this luxury before her adoption. Her little head and feet are almost well.

Mrs. Colby was on her way East at the time of the Indian trouble, and the baby is in charge of her sister, who describes her as being about six months old, "as fat as a little pig," with dusky skin and dark eyes, and so good natured and smiling that sproudly of "My baby." She and the General will carefully educate the little Indian girl and teach her to be a good and useful woman.

It seems almost a miracle that this tiny baby should have survived during those stormy da

INDIA.

Special attention is called to the fact that the following list comprises many new and rare India subjects, such as Glacier Views, Snow Bridges, Rattan Bridges, in the Himalsyas 16,000 feet and more above the sea level, in the Lidda and Scind Valleys, about the Sacred Cave of Amurnath, to which pilgrimages are made by the Hindoos, many of whom perish by the cold in attempting to reach this holy place; portraits and figures of the natives and their Religious Customs, Temples, Bridges and rare bits; Srinuggur and its floating gardens, curious bridges, bazaars for the sale of the world-renowned Cashmere shawls and other fine embroidery work; the winding River Jhelum with its many curves suggesting the pattern or design on all Cashmere shawls.

Those of Nepal, with its sacred Temples at Khatmandu, are especially rare, owing to the difficulty of white men entering this province, which divides India from China; for in this country can be seen the mixture of Hindoo and Chinese architecture. Nepal is inhabited by many Hill Tribes, which tribes are ruled by its Rajahs, and although not under the British Government, it is under the protectorate of England.

Darjeeling and Mussoorie are two celebrated hill sanitariums, 7,000 and 8,000 feet above the sea, in the famous Himalayas. These places are much resorted to by the English and travelers in the summer; as from Darjeeling can be seen the world's second mountain, Kinchinjungs, 28,756 feet high, its peak under eternal snow; 45 miles distant, yet apparently very near.

Delhi, Agra, and Ceylon finish the list. Many of the subjects listed were collected and made by Mr. Ballantine, of Bombay, a long resident of India, who is thoroughly conversant with the manners and customs of the people, and who has carefully brought these original plates to this country.

GREEK ART.

AS EMBODYING GREEK MYTHOLOGY.

(Photographed and Copyrighted by S. A. Scull.)

The chief considerations that determined the selection and arrangement of this collection are:

1st. A purpose to illustrate the changing features of those worships that gave ideals to the best Art of Greece,

2d. The presentation of the development of art forms from crudeness to perfection. In Greece, Photographs were made of scenes connected with sacred centers—afterward, so far as was practicable, groups were so formed as to show archaic types of chief deities, and to them follow, unitedly, the elevation of the Ideals and the progress in Art representation.

These groups were commenced in the Museum of Olympia, and in the private galleries and the Museums of Athens; the original double purpose was measurably accomplished by photographing the gems of Greek sculpture in Rome, Naples, Paris and London.

London.

Two departures from the plan have seemed advisable. 1st. The Cyclopæan masonry of Argolis has been presented before the Hellenic order. 2d. After the illustrations of the expansion of Greek Ideals, and the advance in Greek Art-forms as demonstrated in the worships of Olympia, Delphi and Beotia, a brief digression is made to present the marked contrast furnished by those Asiatic types that exerted more or less influence over the Hellenic Belief and Art.

Hellenic subjects are resumed and the order pursued is indicated by successive Hellenic subjects are resumed and the order pursued is indicated by successive headings.

That art-students may be interested in mythological Relationships and thus lbe induced to form collections of groups, photographs are placed below the usual rates. There is in preparation a Descriptive Catalogue of this collection. It will contain details concerning the most important subjects; a list of the best works of reference for students of the art-relations of Greek Mythology; locations of the principal fields of the excavations made in the interest of Greek classical studies. This last list will cover the excavations that are finished and whose "finds" are available for archeolistic details and those these there is no proposed to the content of the logical study; also those that are progressing and prospective.

FROM OCCIDENT TO ORIENT.

A Fresh Volume of Travel, Being a Record of a Nine Months' Tour Through Europe, Egypt, Holy Land, Parts of Asia Minor, and Greece.

BY REV. WM. A. SMITH.

12 mo., 264 pages, bound in neat Red, Blue, and Green Colors stamped in Black and Gold.

Price, postage prepaid, *1.00 Net.

CHAPTERS IX AND X.

Have read Chapters IX and X advanced sheets, of Rev. W. A. Smith's volume of travel, describing life and scenes about Naples, Alexandria and Cairo. Two words fitly express the sentiments concerning them, realistic, charming.

REV. A. B. SHRADER,
Pastor Evangelical Lutheran Church,
Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

CHAPTERS XI, XII, XIII.

Glancing over the proof-sheets on Egypt and Palestine, I find the charm of "Occident to Orient" is its simple, graphic style. Without parade of scholarship and yet with no lack of it, the story runs, on touching just the things, ancient and present, that deserve mention. The author has made a book entertaining as fiction, and of most practical value to students of the Bible as well as all tourists contemplating a like journey.

REV. J. K. FOWLER.

Pastor 2d Presbyterian Church, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

CHAPTERS XIV, XV, XVI.

Rev. W. A. Smith's visit to Jerusalem and Judea will hold the reader till his story is told. There is enough of Biblical history to bring out the romance and the reality and prophetic significance of city and town, the walls, gates, pools, tombs, and ruins as they everywhere meet the eyes of the traveler to-day.

The author is the Biblical student, the discriminating critic, the believing Christian, the sympathetic traveler, and the keen observer who will command your attention and intelligence while you follow him through glimpses of the Past and scenes of the Present, of the Old Promised Land.

REV. JAMES MARSHALL, D. D. President Coe College

CHAPTER XX AND XXI.

"From Occident to Orient" by Rev. W. A. Smith, is a series of happy word pictures of the various scenes and incidents of travel. Personal experiences and observations are happily blended with historical sketches and descriptions of scenery. Those who travel only in books will cheerfully make this journey.

The chapters on Scotland cities, heaths and lakes, with their fragrant memories of covenanters, martyrs and poets, are especially interesting. A remote ancestral line gives me perhaps a special zest in that rugged land and its ancient worthies. In these pages the stirring Past is vividly retouched, the Present is clearly painted; and the whole picture is fresh, attractive and inspiring.

REV. ALEXANDER G. WILSON, D. D.
President Lenox College, Iowa.

The work is well printed on cream tinted paper and contains many attractive and helpful illustrations, not a few of them occupying a full page each. The book is written in easy and natural and therefore very readable style, and as the reader follows the author from one interesting scene to another, he somewhat unconsciously puts himself in the author's place and sees for himself—so deftly has Mr. Smith concealed his story-telling art.—Cedar Rapids Republican.

McIntosh Battery and Optical Co.:

On several occasions I have had the McIntosh Battery and Optical Co. illustrate my lectures. I have found them to be very satisfactory. Their slides are not excelled by any, and their lanterns are of the most improved design.

WM. M. LAWRENCE,

Pastor of Second Baptist Church.

Elwyn, Penn., Sept. 23, 1890.

McIntosh Battery and Optical Co.:

DEAR SIRS: The Stereopticon Views of Scenes in Palestine, and of other localities illustrating the Bible and its truths, have been of incalculable service to me. This system of object-teaching is destined to be introduced as a feature of Sunday evening lectures. Such a method is sure to attract and instruct, and I wonder that its excellence is so tardily recognized.

Every Church will do well to own the apparatus made by the McIntosh Battery and Optical Co., of Chicago. Yours truly,

C. C. SALTER, Pastor of Bethel Church, Duluth, Minn.

Chicago, Sept. 20, 1890.

GENTLEMEN: This certifies that I have used the Self-Centering McIntosh Lime-Light for Lectures and Sunday School illustrations for some years, and find it clear and beautiful. Have also projected with the McIntosh Light and Lanterns used at the Garrett Biblical Institute, to illustrate for the Palestine Society. It never fails to please. Every Church should own your excellent Lantern.

Yours truly, O. E. MURRAY, Pastor Wabash Ave. M. E. Church, Chicago.

Chicago, Sept. 22, 1890.

DEAR SIRS: I have been using the Stereopticon Apparatus from the McIntosh Battery and Optical Co., and I endorse it as the best in America. It is unsurpassed for illustration in evangelical work, being an instrument that brings in the masses which we could not reach otherwise. It educates them not only to beautiful, Yours truly, picturesque scenery, but to the Gospel of Christ.

THE WILSON LANTERN JOURNEYS.

A SERIES OF DESCRIPTIONS OF JOURNEYS AT HOME AND ABROAD— FOR USE WITH THE MAGIC LANTERN.

PREFACE TO VOLUME III.

The two volumes of Descriptions which I have already had the pleasure of preparing, have met with such favor that I am induced to follow with a third. This time I am enabled to describe the product of my own camera; for during the first half of last year—1882—I visited Egypt, Palestine, Syria, the Sinai Peninsula, and Arabia Petra. I conducted the largest photographic expedition that was probably ever known. And as a result, I brought home a series of Oriental Views new and unattainable heretofore. And now, since they are ready to do their work, I proceed with the next duty of supplying descriptions for the information and help of those who wish to enjoy and share the pleasures of my wanderings.

The work cost many a long, hard and perilous journey, but it also gave me many happy days, when I wished that everybody might see and know all that I saw and learned.

The contents at this date—November, 1883—will include only the descriptions of the last part of the route named above; but I hope as time permits to follow with descriptions of the rest, and fill up the volume to its proper size. Meanwhile, I hope what has been written will be found useful and acceptable.

EDWARD L. WILSON.

GENTLEMEN: I can heartily endorse your Apparatus and Slides, and as an Evangelist that has used an Illustrated Gospel of Bible Pictures can say that it is one of the great means, with God's blessing, of the day for reaching the unsaved, and to get a hearing from the Christian people. Also have met with great success among children, by means of it.

Respectfully yours,

A. E. KEABLES. The Picture Evangelist.

Chicago. Sept. 18, 1890.

McIntosh Battery and Optical Co.:

This is to certify that I have used many kinds of Stereopticons, of different makes, and when I saw the plans for the Chicago Model, I ordered it at once, and obtained the first one completed. Since then I have used it many times with perfect satisfaction. It has never disappointed me. It is light, easily set up or packed, easily adjusted, raised or depressed, and by far the most complete, durable and compact instrument I have known.

> JOHN O. FOSTER, Pastor State St. M. E. Church.

> > Chicago Ill., Sept. 19, 1890.

McIntosh Battery and Optical Co.:

DEAR SIRS: Being quite familiar with your lantern and slide department from a year or more of practical experience, I am glad to say that in my opinion your Stereopticons and stock of Slides are equal if not superior to anything of the kind in the country.

As to the value of Bible or other teaching, by the aid of Stereopticon illustration, there can be no doubt. I am entirely satisfied that it will soon find a large place in the Sunday School and the pulpit.

Sincerely yours, S. M. DAVIS. (Former) Pastor Wabash Ave. M. E. Church, Chicago.

The following was written to a friend by the Rev. Martin L. Williston in reply to an inquiry as to his experience with a McIntosh Stereopticon.

Chicago, Sept. 23, 1890.

MY DEAR FRIEND: I am glad of the opportunity to say a good word for the McIntosh outfit for Magic Lantern work. After several years' experience on the lecture platform and the most thorough test with the Stereopticon, I am ready to pronounce the McINTOSH intruments unsurpassed in every respect. If they are equalled, I have yet to see the instance, and I have been a careful observer. Nothing could induce me to give up the Ether Saturator; its convenience makes it vastly the superior of the Hydrogen Cylinder, and it is a positive blessing to any one who would otherwise be plagued with a clumsy second gas-bag. The light produced by the "Saturator" is unmistakably better than that from the Hydrogen sack or cylinder.

I find the work put into all the McIntosh goods to be done "upon honor;" what the firm says can be trusted, and the splendid reputation it enjoys has been Very sincerely yours,
MARTIN L. WILLISTON. honorably gained.

TESTIMONIALS.

To whom it may concern:

CHICAGO, ILL., Nov. 1, 1889.

I have obtained thousands of slides—plain, colored, mounted, slip slides, dissolving views and all kinds of specimens of this wonderful work from the McIntosh Battery and Optical Co., 143 Wabash Ave., Chicago, and know these views to be of the finest in the mar-

Optical Co., 143 Wabash Ave., Chicago, and know these views to be of the lines of the ket.

I have used all kinds of lanterns, and know of none of better quality every way, than those made by this firm. For many months in my mission work in Chicago I used their complete outfit, and always had the best results. The gas made by this house is of the cleanest and purest kind, and their cylinders are unrivaled. The limes are the best we have ever found, and always give satisfaction. We are well acquainted with all the great lantern firms in our country, and believe that none can give a better equivalent for your money than this solid and reliable house. They have experts for all their special departments, and men who are trained and educated for the work.

JOHN O. FOSTER, Pastor State Street M. E. Church.

We give the following from Dunn's Quarterly, a Chicago magazine for Sunday school concert exercises.

THE MAGIC LANTERN,

The magic lantern has come to stay. It has been laughed out, voted out, gone out, come back, doubled, tripled, and dissolved. It has been furnished with mounted slides, colored Slides, revolving slides, aquariums, electrical appliances, growing trees, salamander experiments, pulsation of heart-beats, flowering plants, rain and snow storms, hail, frosts, flowing streams, rolling seas, tossing ships, blue skies, night owls, sunbursts, ghosts, armies in battle, dying heroes, cities, countries, specters, clouds, stars, mountains, fauna, flora, the microscopic world enlarged a million times, caves, grottos, panoramas and cycloramas, all on the screen large as life, natural as life, and full of truth and exactness.

Pictures delight the children; they educate, please, instruct, entertain, and if well arranged and well presented, are just the thing for a pure, harmless and cheap entertainment. We have tried the experiment many times, and always had success.

DEAR SIRS—The Saturator received in due time, and its performance pleases me greatly.

It is a very great improvement over every other form of light for projection. Yours truly,

G. D. SITZER.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26, 1889.

McIntosh Battery and Optical Co., 141 Wabash Ave., City:

Gentlemen—I have been using your Sciopticon for several months and have used it with ether-oxygen light, manufacturing my own oxygen, and can say that it is perfectly satisfactory in every respect. We regard it as superior to the oxy-hydrogen light.

J. STANLEY GRIMES Yours very truly,

CHICAGO, Nov. 20, 1889.

McIntosh Battery and Optical Co., 141 and 143 Wabash Ave., City:

GENTLEMEN—After having used your Chicago Model Stereopticon for some time, during which I have thoroughly tested the instrument, I am compelled to express to you my thanks for having persuaded me to use this instrument. It is in every respect a most practical and useful apparatus, giving a clear, large and well-expressed picture. More especially am I bleased to find that the instrument will span with ease the distance of 110 feet.

HAMILTON LECTURE CO. Per J. B. HAMILTON. Yours very truly,

THE MAMMOTH CAVE.

We have at last, after expending a good deal of time and money, obtained a series of negatives of the interior of this interesting place.

The Lantern Slides from these negatives are now placed on the market for the first time. As indicative of how difficult it has been to make these negatives, we may say that one plate alone was exposed for twenty-eight hours, four powerful locomotive headlights being trained on the subject to be photographed.

The negative of the Bottomless Pit required four minutes' exposure, magnesium wire being burned, and the camera fixed pointing downward into the pit, the magnesium wire having been lowered away down into the depths of the abyss and ignited by a peculiar mechanical device. These and many others represent the difficulties encountered. encountered.

A PIG TAIL COMEDY AND A PIG TAIL TRAGEDY.

A Set of 12 Comic Slides at 50 cents per slide. PITON'S FOREIGN COMIQUES.

50 Cents each.

All travelers abroad meet many curious experiences and funny people, and, looking through the most comical spectacles, Professor Piton has sketched for us some such dreadfully funny scenes and things. The list is being constantly added to. Among those now ready are the following, which serve splendidly for extras in Wilson's Lantern Journeys. A good laugh always comes welcome to an American audience, and these will give an exhibitor the power to bring it about at will. Good effects are obtained with the double lantern by dissolving these with or from natural clouds.

1 Phosphorescent Phizzes.
2 A Foreign Palace Car at Night.
3 Crossing the Channel and All's Weli–Sick.

COLORED SLIDES OF EGYPT. We have heretofore alluded briefly to our beautiful sets of Egyptian subjects but we are now prepared to furnish without delay these charming bits of Nile scenery for use in connection with other Egyptian views, or as effect sets for the close of an entertainment. The subjects are as follows:

The Nile Boat (A), The Nile Boat (B). The Nile Boat (C). The Ruins at Kardassy (A). The Ruins at Kardassy (B). The Ruins at Kardassy (C).

The Ruins at Phile, No. 1 (A). The Ruins at Phile, No. 1 (B). The Ruins at Phile, No. 1 (C). The Ruins at Phile, No. 2 (A). The Ruins at Phile, No. 2 (B). The Ruins at Phile, No. 2 (C).

Each set consists of three wood mounted slides, with three inch opening. The first one (A) is a plain, uncolored slide, with the usual bright sunlight; the second (B) is a beautifully colored view, with rich, but delicately tinted sunset glow; while the third (C) is the most charming moonlight effect. The three views of each set being printed from one negative (and that photographed from nature), are perfectly registered, so as to dissolve exactly each into the other, the effect is truly wonderful. The price for each set of three is $4.00, or sold singly, if desired, at $1.00 for the plain view (A), or $1.50 each for the colored views (B or C).

They will be furnished to order, when so desired, in two other forms, viz.: three and a half inch circular opening, $4.75 per set; or three-inch square opening, at $5.25.

BEAUTIFUL COMPANION PIECES

Night.—A beautiful female figure, clad in flowing white robes, clinging to the moon. Stars dotting the sky.

Morning.—Another artistic gem is a beautifully draped female figure floating in the rays of the rising sun.

Both of these are exquisite and refined pieces, and can be appropriately used before any audience. Three inches, square, $2.00 each.

A CHRISTMAS HYMN.

(With Poem.)

1 "Had Rome been growing up to might, and now was queen of land and sea."
2 "The Senator of haughty Rome impatient urged his chariot's flight."
3 "Within that province far away went plodding home a weary boor."
4 "How calm a moment may precede one that shall thrill the world forever."
5 "A thousand bells ring out, and throw their joyful peals abroad,"
6 "For in the stable lay, new born, the peaceful Prince of earth and heaven."

HOME, SWEET HOME.

(With Poem.)

"Be it ever so humble,
 There's no place like home.
 "An exile from home,
 Splendor dazzles in vain."

3 "How sweet 'tis to sit
'Neath a fond father's smile."
4 "To thee I'll return
Overburdened with care."

The ballad of "Home, Sweet Home," was written by our countryman, John Howard Paine, in the early part of this century, and these illustrations are designed to give some idea of the style of dress, etc., of the period.

THE HYMN "FROM GREENLAND'S ICY MOUNTAINS."

By permission of the owners of the Copyright, Messrs. Porter & Coats, Philadelphia.

13 Beautifully Colored Views, $19.50.

A series of illustrations of this well-known and popular hymn have been arranged expressly for us, and no other dealer or manufacturer has control of the negatives. The coloring is exquisite, and when properly thrown on the Screen with a Dissolving Stereopticon, gives an effect which we think is far more beautiful than any of the other numerous illustrated hymns and poems published. This set comprises 13 slides beautifully colored, and is not furnished plain.

No. 1. "From Greenland's Icy Mountains,"
As indicated by the first two lines of the hymn; a part of the first picture shows an iceberg and the frozen seas of the North, while the other part represents a Tropical Indian scene with palm trees and a glorious smalet ous sunset

No. 2. Shows a portion of an Island. In the foreground, the ocean, with a Coral reef peeping up from the moon-lit waters.

Nos. 3-4. "Where Afric's sunny fountains roll down their golden sands, from many an ancient river, etc."

This view represents the "golden sands" of Africa; a group of natives with their camels halted at a "sunny fountain" for rest; while "from many an ancient river" shows a typical scene along the borders of the Nile, showing a ruined temple and one of the native Dahabeahs floating down the river.

No. 5. "From many a palmy plain they call us to deliver their land from error's chain."

Depicts a palmy plain, its glittering sands, luxuriant palm trees, another group of camels, dromedaries and Arabs, with a sheltering tent to shield them from the noon-day sun.

Nos. 6-7.

"Can we whose souls are lighted With wisdom from on high, Can we, to men benighted,
The lamp of life deny?"

Allegorical picture representing a clergyman in the pulpit; in the distance a portion of a church, in the foreground a number of people wending, their way to divine services; an open Bible, with an old-fashioned lamp resting thereon, from which burning incense is arising toward a distant view of the heavenly city.

Nos. 8-9.

"Salvation! O Salvation!

The joyful sound proclaim,

'Till earth's remotest nation,

Has learned Messiah's name."

In the first, the view shows a portion of the place of the crucifixion with its three crosses, a crescent moon rising from the waters, while through the air are floating Angels bearing trumpets with which "the joyful sound" is proclaimed. In the latter, simply a portrait of the Savior, after Guido, showing him crowned with thorns and his blood dropping from numberless wounds; a background of ocean and mountains with a portion of plain, and palm trees showing thereon, in the center of which the portrait is set, making it a very striking and pleasing picture.

Nos. 10-11.
"Waft, waft, ye winds, his story,
And you, ye waters, roll,
Till, like a sea of glory,
It spreads from pole to pole."

Two of the most beautiful of the views Two of the most beautiful of the views of this series. An ocean steamer is seen tossing on the billowy sea, and a distant view of land is shown; while in the latter is seen a view only to be seen at sea where the entire expanse of water, lighted up by the setting sun, shines like a "sea of glory" and seems to "spread from pole to pole."

Nos. 12-13. "Redeemer, King, Creator, in bliss returns to reign."
In 12 is shown an allegorical picture, in the immediate foreground the Holy Bible, on which is resting a crown of thorns; a little further back the hill showing the three crosses with the figure still hanging thereon, and in the extreme background a view of Jerusalem. No. 13, the last picture of the series is an ideal view of the "Redeemer, King, Creator," accompanied with a host of Angels returning to reign. reign.

ABIDE WITH ME.

We have arranged and perfected a beautiful set of slides to illustrate the favorite hymn, "Abide with Me," by Henry Francis Lyte.

Those who have seen the effect produced upon an audience by the judicious use of music in connection with certain slides, at the closing of an entertainment, will readily appreciate what the set now offered must be.

Even the old and well-known set, "Rock of Ages," although consisting of but four slides, when rightly handled by an expert operator with an accompaniment on the organ, or the hymn given by a quartette of voices, will produce a better effect than any number of pieces of this nature without the music, as there is so little a lecturer can say that will equal the charm lent to it by appropriate music.

This set, as arranged, consists of twenty-five beautiful colored slides, and we have no hesitation in saving that it is the finest combination of pictures of this class ever offered to the public. Those who have seen the pictures projected while the song was being sung, say they had always admired the words, but never knew before what a deep meaning there was in every line. No hymn or poem was ever written that is so well adapted to illustration, and no illustrations were ever made that so appropriately set forth the spirit of the words.

It has been suggested that a smaller number of illustrations would insure a larger sale of the set, as many would be deterred from purchasing twenty-five slides where they might be induced to purchase ten or twelve. We have taken all this into account, but still prefer to offer the set in its complete form, thinking that those who do purchase will agree with us that its beauty lies in the appropriateness and the fullness of its illustration. The set of twenty-five views is sold at $57.50.

We give below the hymn entire, with a brief description of the views and effects:

1-2 Abide with me fast falls the even-tide;

The darkness deepens; Lord, with me abide!

These two lines are illustrated by two views, the first representing a lighthouse on the end of a pier, with nothing visible beyond but the sea, and the whole showing that night approaches. The second view is the same, but at night, with a beautiful effect upon the water, the light shining from the lighthouse, and appropriately illustrates the line, "The darkness deepens." ness deepens.

3. When other helpers fail, and comforts flee, Help of the helpless, oh! abide with

This idea is most beautifully illustrated This lidea is most beautifully indistrated by a houseless and homeless wanderer, crouching upon the steps of a brilliantly lighted mansion, gazing in through the windows at the comforts so sadly needed and for which she must look to the "Help of the Helpless."

4. Swift to its close ebbs out life's little day; Earth's Joys grow dim; its glories pass away;

An old church in ruins, in the midst of toppling grave stones, well illustrates how "its glories pass away."

5. Change and decay in all around I see; O Thou, who changest not, abide with

A beautiful moonlight view of a ruined abbey, with its ivy-clad gable, the moon, shining through its "Catharine Wheel" window and well expressing "change window and and decay."

6. Not a brief glance, I beg, a passing word; But, as Thou dwell'st with Thy disciples, Lord,

Our Lord, with his disciples, partaking of the last supper.

7. Familiar, condescending, patient, free,

Come, not to sojourn, but abide with me!

The Savior, "familiar, condescending patient, free," surrounded by the "little children," whom he loved so well.

8. Come not in terrors, as the King of kings;

But, kind and good, with healing in Thy wings;

A scene in which the "kind and good" phase of our Savior's character is typified at the bedside of the sick and dying.

9. Tears for all woes, a heart for every plea; Come, Friend of sinners, and thus abide with me!

The "Friend of sinners," standing over the crouching, penitent figure, and saying, "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her."

10. Thou on my head in early youth didst smile; And, though rebellious and perverse meanwhile,

A beautiful child watched over by two elder sisters—a perfect gem of a picture.

11-12. Thou hast not left me, oft as I left Thee

On to the close, O Lord! abide with me.

Angel faces appearing as in readiness to crown with glory one who is near "the close."

13. I need Thy presence every passing hour;

what but Thy grace can foil the tempter's power?

tempter's power?

A portion only—the central group—of Dubufe's celebrated picture of the "Prodigal Son" is here utilized, showing the youth surrounded by the "tempter's power." By taking only the principal group of this picture, the interest is centered on the one figure. The other portions of the allegory do not divert the attention. attentions of

Who, like Thyself, my guide and stay can be? Through cloud and sunshine, oh! abide with me. 14. Who,

An attic room; the figure of a woman weary with work; the meager furnishing of the room, and the unmistakable surroundings of one who sees more of "cloud" than "sunshine," illustrates this number

15. I fear no foe, with Thee at hand to bless; Ills have no weight and tears no bit-

Ills have no weight and tears no bitterness;
Another beautiful picture is here introduced, showing a widow at the grave of her departed husband; but her look of resignation and the wreath of flowers she has brought with which to deck the tomb, show that although there may have been tears, they have lost their historness. bitterness.

16. Where is Death's sting? Where, Grave, thy victory? I triumph still, if Thou abide with me!

Death is depicted. The arena is filled with the dead and dying, sacrificed to furnish a day's diversion for an emperor. But when we know that they were slaughtered for daring to proclaim their belief in the Savior, and as we see the angels hovering over the martyrs thus sacrificed, we may well exclaim, "Where is Death's sting? Where, Grave, thy victory?"

17-18. Hold, then, Thy cross before my closing eyes!
Shine through the gloom, and point me to the skies!
Faith, looking forward sees the cross rise before her, pointing to the skies.

19 to 25. Heaven's morning breaks, and earth's vain shadows fiee; In life and death, O Lord! abide with me.

In life and death, O Lord! abide with me.

The numbers from 19 to 25 all combine to make the closing scene of this series one of the most brilliant in effect of anything attempted in the line of lantern transformations. The last view previous to this fades gradually away into a rose-tinted cloud, from which two angels emerge, bearing in their arms a female figure representing a departed soul. These figures are quite large and low down on the disk, and seem quite near. Gradually the figures disappear. An entirely different but more gorgeous cloud covers the screen, and presently the same figures emerge again, smaller and higher up, apparently further away, and in their turn disappear into a third cloud, as brilliant as the last, but different from either of the preceding; when, at length on the upper portion of the disk, and flying in the opposite direction, reduced in size, as though a long way off, appear the angels with their burden, only to melt away gradually, and almost imperceptibly, disappearing into a cloud of the brightest ruby tints, as we picture to ourselves that "Heaven's morning breaks, and earth's vain shadows fiee."

A FLIGHT OF A SOUL.

The last seven numbers of the above set, from nineteen to twenty-five inclusive, form a set by thenselves, called "The Flight of a Soul," and as it is the most brilliant and gorgeous portion of the larger series, it makes a set of the utmost brilliancy in itself. Customers who do not care to purchase the entire series of twenty-five can obtain the seven slides for $10.50.

These effects, it will be readily seen, can be modified to an almost unlimited extent by the dexterous choice and use of clouds, ice and other views which are appropriate, guided by the invention of the exhibitor. The statuary is of our own best

Any person having a large collection of views can modify them thus and produce wondrously beautiful things. Great advantages are obtained by the skillful manipulation of the dissolving key, and these new things are arranged so as to permit of that. It is known that when the dissolver is turned to the extreme right that but one picture will be shown, and when it is turned to the extreme left, only the other picture will be shown; but if it is turned so that its handle will be in the middle, the light is divided between the two lanterns and very pretty transformations thus obtained.

One can soon learn how to arrange this, by just a little experiment, and thus secure an unlimited amount of pretty things which are always applauded by the audience.

SECOND SERIES-LARGELY IMPROVED AND CHANGED.

The following new series are arranged similarly to those described above, and are greatly improved, inasmuch as the whole of any one set are either wood-mounted, or else are without wood, so that no change of holder is needed to work them.

Moreover, the statuary figures are made of a size to register with the preceding or succeeding view, so that they will dissolve with astonishing effect. The quality, too, is unexcelled.

The colored subjects are most brilliantly painted, the effects are most startling, the sudden changes supraising and the combination most startling.

too, is unexcelled.

The colored subjects are most brilliantly painted, the effects are most startling, the sudden changes surprising and the combinations most attractive. We have spared no pains or expense upon their production, the fine patronage given our other sets assuring us that such scenic transformations are acceptable to buyers, and entertain their audiences, for their sale is unprecedented.

We commend them to the attention of all. They will pay the first night they are shown, by filling your house the second night.

HEBE'S REVENGE UPON CUPID-A NEW MYTHOLOGY.

A MOST BEAUTIFUL, STARTLING AND LAUGHABLE COMBINATION. SURE TO TAKE.

- 1. Statuary Group.—Hebe, the goddess of youth, desiring to perform her toilet, commands Cupid to hold her mirror for her. Indignant at being pressed into such menial service, Cupid causes the image of a monster to appear in the glass. The enraged Hebe views it calmly, but swears vengeance; and both disappear into.
- 2. The Blue-tinted Clouds, by no means good friends, though seemingly at peace.
- 3. The Home of Hebe.—We now see the lovely, but angered goddess amid the beauties of the Garden of the Gods, from whose flowers she gathers the beautiful tints with which she paints the feathers of her mother Juno's peacocks, which are committed to the care of our sweet hero-
- 4. Statue of Hebe.—Meditating how she shall punish the impudence of Cupid. At first, she resolves to entrap him with a garland of flowers, but abandons that project, and determines to consult her father, Jupiter, on the subject. She brays to him to come to her aid.
- 5. Cupid's Counsel with his Fellows.—
 Having in vain sought Hebe for a loving make-up, and satisfied that there is mischief in the air, the troubled little urchin proceeds to the rendezvous for a council with his chums. To avoid detection they cause themselves to be transformed into gnomes. They resolve to frighten Hebe to death, and dig for some horrid monstrosity to assist them; two of them, as vampires, being posted in the air to guard against intruders.

It may not be just the exact spot where the infant Moses was found, because things change in the course of 4,000 years or more, and it is difficult to always decide upon landmarks. 2. The Sea.—Here we see her vanishing amid the turbulent waters, and again from their depths arises a beautiful amid the turbutent waters, and all arroup.

3. Leda and the Swan (Statuary).—The fair Leda was the wife of the King of Sparta. Jupiter became so attracted by her loveliness as to excite the jealousy of his lawful spouse, Juno, and she changed him into a swan. She could not however, change his heart, and here we see him beside his mistress, while she tenderly caresses his graceful head. We now lose the lovers on the

4. Snowy Peaks of the heaven-reaching mountains, while slowly emerging from the caverns we descry the form of

5. Diana (Statuary), the Goddess of Hunting.—She was a twin sister of Apollo. She obtained permission from her father, Jupiter, to live in perpetual celibacy, and to avoid the society of men devoted herself to hunting, having a little army of nymphs as her attendants, all of whom took vows to follow her example of single blessedness. Her most famous temple was that of Ephesus, called one of the seven wonders of the world. She is now bent on some deed of vengeance, and we lose sight of her in this

6. Cascade.—She hurries on her errand, and through the mist of the waterfall we catch sight of her victim

7. Niobe (Statuary), who by her ambition has incurred the anger of the gods and they kill her children. Apollo slew the seven sons, and Diana destroyed the daughters. Niobe herself, overcome with grief, remained weeping over her dead children until she was changed into

8. Stone.—This scene of desolation seems typical of the ruins into which so many ambitions are thrown.

9. Juno (Statuary), the queen of heaven, now comes haughtily upon the scene. She was the wife of Jupiter, and her power was unlimited. She was strictly virtuous and inflicted severe punishment on those who were not. Her cruelty so exasperated Jupiter that he suspended her from heaven by a golden chain, with a heavy anvil attached to her feet. This only made her angry, and he was obliged to release her for fear of her vengeance. And here we lose sight of her as she vanishes in the

DEAR SIRS: The Compressed Oxygen Outfit and Ether Saturator, recently ordered from you, to hand and tested in public exhibition last night with entire satisfaction

Yours truly,
S. B. BROCK.

McIntosh Battery and Optical Co.:

I gave two lectures on the World's Fair Friday and Saturday, October 21st and 22d, using your lantern outfit, which is causing great satisfaction in the church and community.

McIntosh Battery and Optical Co., Chicago, Ill..

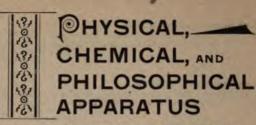

GENTLEMEN: We have used the Ether Saturator and the Compressed Oxygen outfit for three months, and like them very much. One package of chemicals is hardly enough for one filling. We run now one hour, and want it to run an hour and a quarter. We have bought all our chemicals from the McIntosh B. & O. Co. By putting in 1½ of packages of chemicals we can get it to run as long as we wish. We get a very good light. Quite a number of entertainments have been given, and nine times out of ten people come to us and say that we have produced the best pictures they ever saw.

Everything works all right. This outfit is a great success.
